"In the straggling little frontier settlement of Louisville, saddled with the proud importance of being the capital of the State of Georgia, in the year 1801, a collection of respectable citizens bearing the extraordinary title of Senatus Academicus were contending with due parliamentary dignity, but with considerable animation over who should have a coveted prize. The object of their desire was nothing more than a 'college or seminary of learning', which the state had chartered sixteen years previously.

Jackson County was selected."

"But Jackson County was extensive in those days, indeed, as large as a half dozen twentieth century Georgia counties, and so the problem was only half settled until the exact spot was picked out."

"In the midst of summer (1801) they set out into the forests to the northwest and did not stop until they had almost entered the Indian territory. The land was hilly and the streams clear and swift."

"After debating various eminences, they agreed upon a small plateau high above the Oconee River where it swirled down over some rocks near a clump of cedar trees."

"This spot was known as the Cedar Shoals among the few frontiersmen who had wandered this far into the northwest."

"In the fall of 1801, . . . a large three-story brick structure, patterned after the principal hall at Yale, began to arise on the crest of the hill."

"By 1805 the western half had been finished, which the trustees jubilantly named Franklin College in honor of honest Ben who personified learning and wisdom and who at one time endeared himself to Georgians by acting as their Colonial agent in London."

Martha Lumpkin House

Martha Lumpkin gave her house and the land surrounding it to the University with a stipulation in the deed that if the house were ever torn down, the land surrounding it would revert to the heirs of her estate. The house was built in 1842 by her father who was Governor of Georgia.

Confederate Constitution

The University owns the original Confederate Constitution which consists of six pieces of parchment paper pasted together and is over twelve feet long. It was copied by a scribe and signed by all representatives on March 9, 1861. It was purchased by the University from Mrs. Durent and is housed in the library.

"One of the most famous student fighters of the 'twenties and certainly the most famous of them in later times was Robert Toombs."

"He entered the University in 1824, bold, vigorous, large of build, and full of life, fresh from a plantation and plantation ways. It took him only a short time to find out that the rules were entirely too many and senseless."

"For almost three years Toombs had been adding to the strain and stress of faculty wrath, and then the crash came as the first resolution of the new year, 1828, the professors dismissed Toombs and in reply to his letter begging reinstatement, entered the final verdict, January 2, 1828, that the faculty could do nothing more in his case."

"Toombs departed, but there has grown up a wealth of legends concerning his mighty deeds — how he stayed around until commencement (from January to August was a rather long wait), and then, with burning oratory, drew multitudes out of the chapel and away from the official program to a great oak tree near by. As proof of the legend the tree was ever afterwards called the Toombs Oak — until one day lightning struck the tree and killed it, and what could be more miraculous than the fact that Toombs had died the very moment before the tree was shattered!"

"Georgia prepared a surprise for Alabama in the 1912 game, first game of football ever played in Columbus. Everything happened, including the funniest play since the beginning of football and a free-for-all fight."

In his pregame talk to the squad Coach Cunningham outlined the play. The late Hooks Autrey, of LaGrange, a sub back, was called front and center."

"Autrey, you'll have the glory of making a touchdown for Georgia today. You'll wear your regular civilian clothes and stand on the sidelines. And then, on the first play after the kickoff, you'll receive a long pass. That's all there is to it," Cunningham explained. "You catch it and run like h--l."

"Autrey appeared reluctant. Then he said, "Coach, these are the only breeches I have and I must see my girl tonight."

"Cunningham snorted. "A touchdown for Georgia is worth more than any girl. Now remember just what you're to do."

"Things went off just right. Georgia won the toss and received, with 10 men in uniform and Autrey stationed just inside the sidelines in his Sunday best. On the first play a long forward pass was thrown to the civilian clad Autrey and he went scampering down the field. A screen of 10 Georgia players pounded behind him."

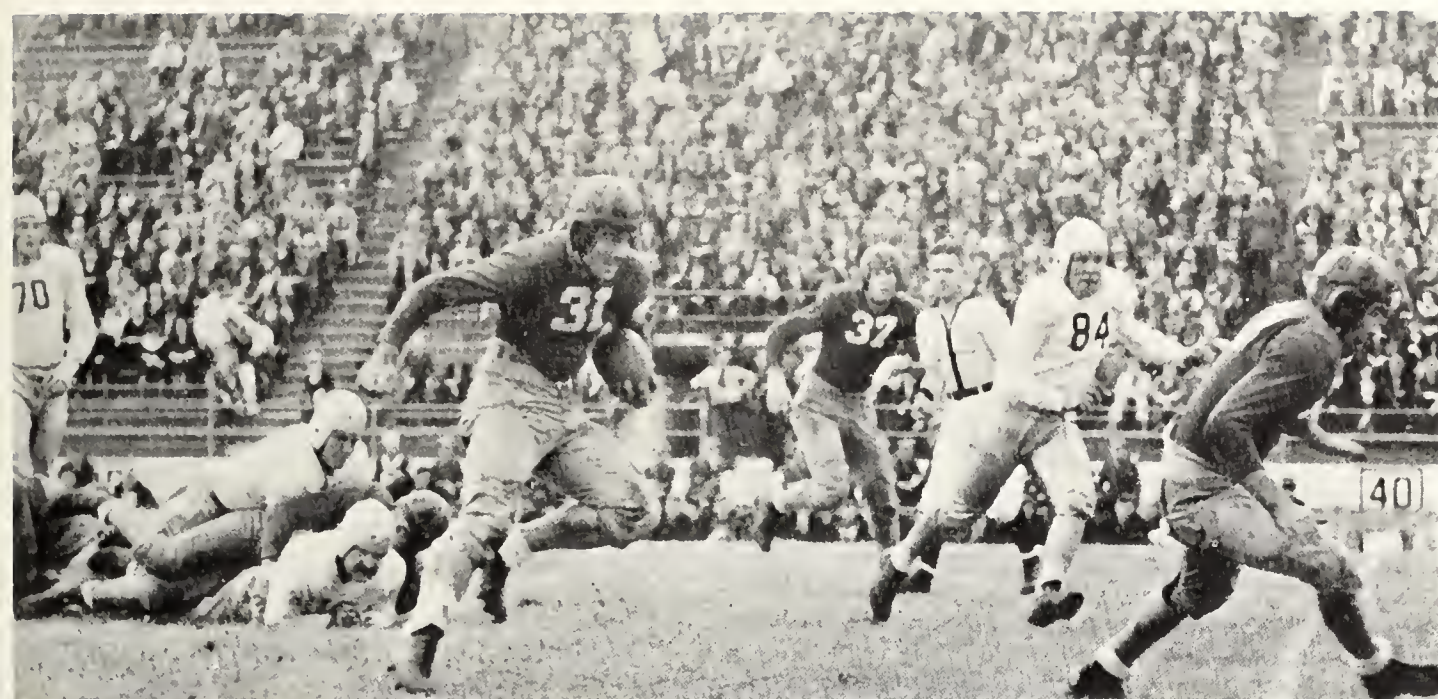

"Autrey heard the hammering feet and he thought of his pants. It didn't occur to him he was being trailed by his own players. So when he reached the 10 and feeling pursuers breathing down his neck, he lay down to save his breeches, Cunningham related."

"Alabama players reached Autrey and the other Georgia players by this time and the fight began. Police of Columbus had never seen a football game, so they waded in recklessly and arrested all the players. Prof. John Morris, acting for Dr. Sanford, got in a fight with Alabama's Faculty Director of Athletics."

"Coach Cunningham had to get Frank Foley, newly elected municipal court judge, to intercede for the players so the game could go on. Alabama's Coach Graves was incensed that Georgia would try such a trick play. But Referee Councilman said he could find no rule against it and certainly the gain would have to stay. It did, and the game went on."

In 1887, a meeting of the student body was held. A committee was selected to get colors for the students to adopt.

This committee selected Black, Gold, and Red as the school colors.

In the spring of 1888 the gold color was withdrawn since some of the students did not want anything "yellow" in or about the athletics of the University of Georgia.

The first Georgia mascot was a goat.

Thank you, Mrs. Susan Tate for assistance with this section.

"They told me that they needed a quarterback, that they only had one other prospect in mind. Then when I came on the first day they had seven quarterbacks, and two of them were All-Americans."

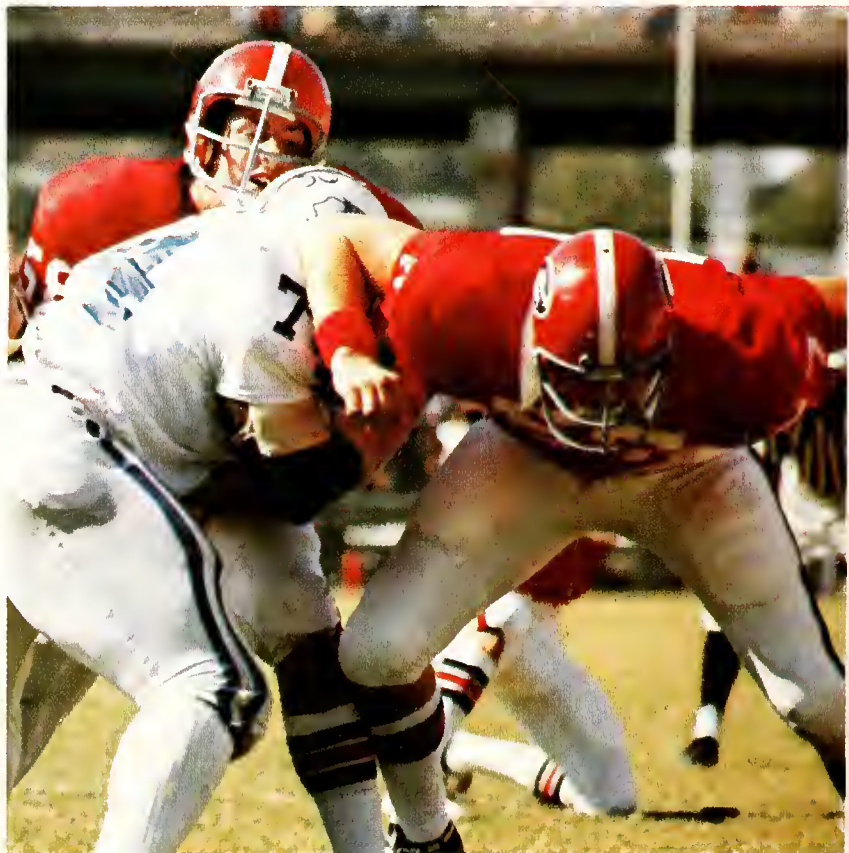

"They'll take you out to eat. They say things like, "You'll make a real good Bulldog," and "you can start as a sophomore." They promise you a lot of stuff. They brown-nose. They build you up so much. When you get here they drop all of that."

"People come to me and say it's a free education, but I always felt like I had almost paid for it."

"Here there's a lot of competition, and I've felt a couple of times that I just got lost in the shuffle."

"There's a lot of pinching, ankle-twisting, and nose-twisting in pile-ups, and some guys spit in your face."

"I got popped this year, hit this linebacker head on. It knocked me crazy, I couldn't even see. So I came right off the field. Then Coach got all over me for coming off the field. He said, 'Why didn't you lie down?' Was he concerned about me being hurt? No, he just wanted the time out."

"There are a lot of show-boats. They'll fake that injury and lie there for awhile, then recover long enough to get the applause."

"I had this friend who had a back injury. I mean he was really hurt, but as they were carrying him off the field, he said, 'How's the crowd taking it?' "

"When you get hurt, they take good care of you, but when you're hurt, you're not important to the team. They kinda move you to the last and you've got to work your way up."

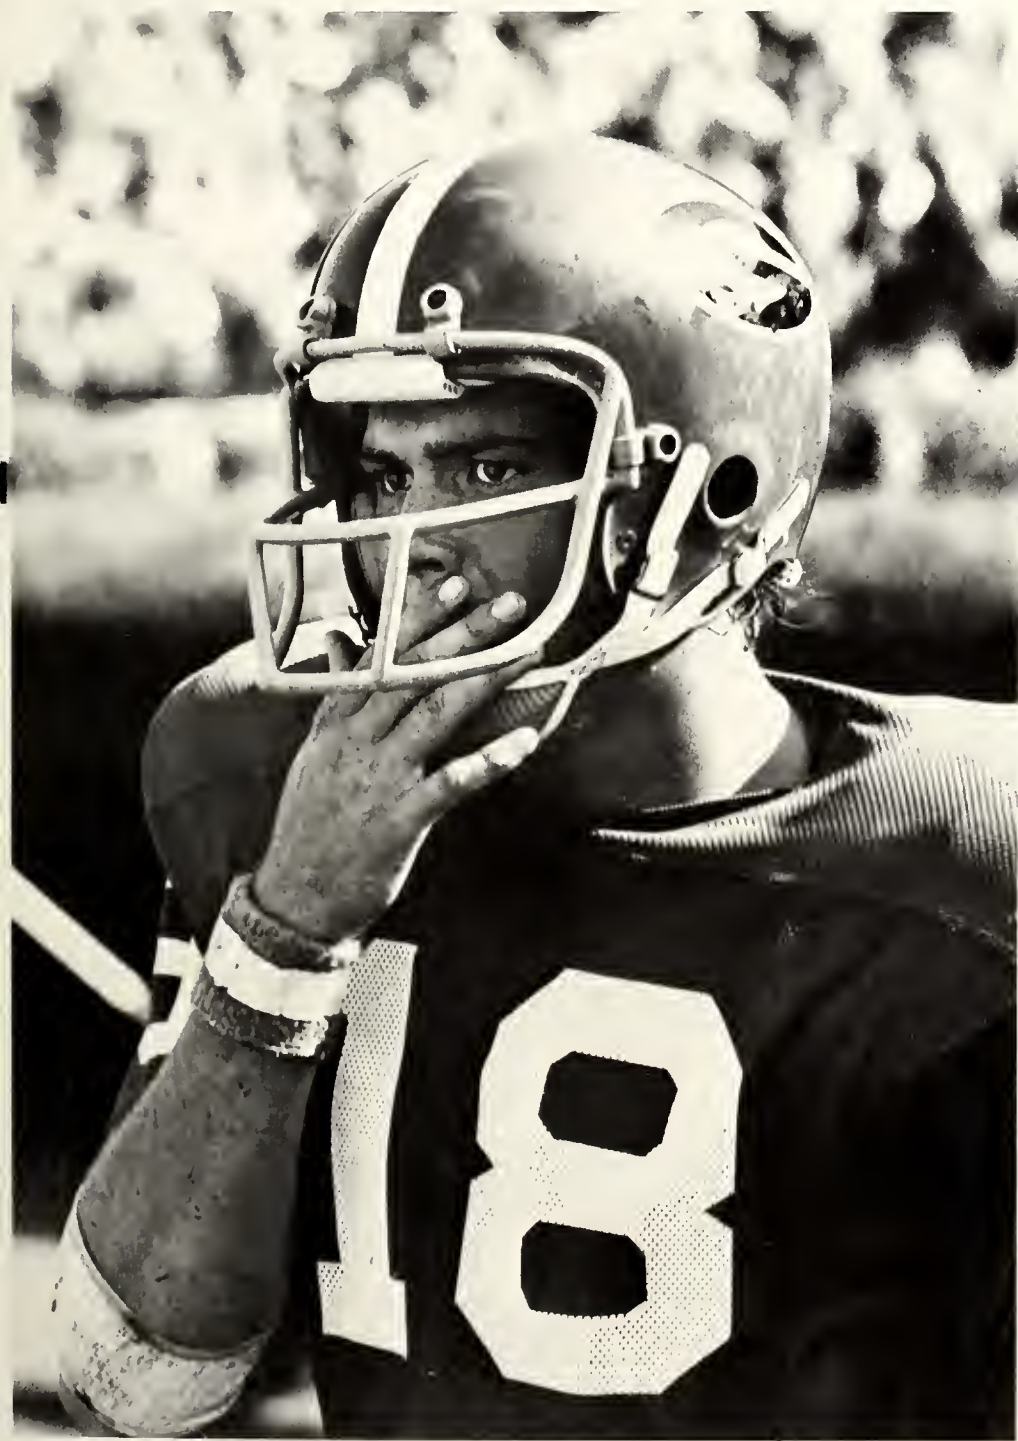

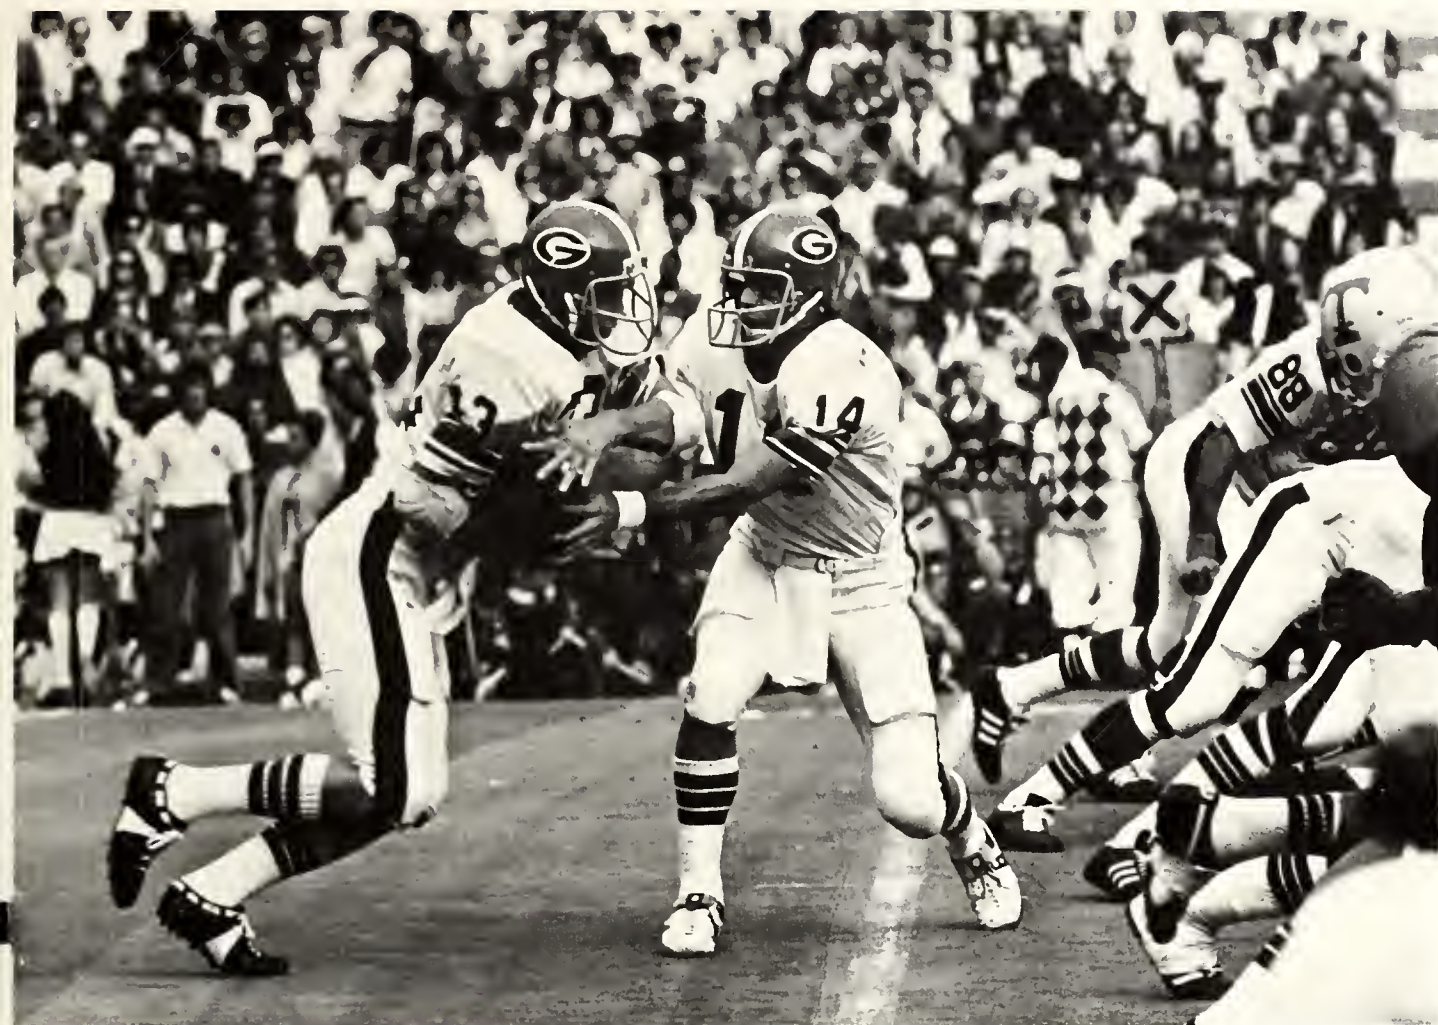

"One time I was running to the coach on the sidelines and halfway there I tripped and fell on my face."

"One time when I was out of shape I was vomiting in the middle of the field during the game."

"I never hear a sound from the crowd when I'm playing."

"How many working plays do we use? Five?"

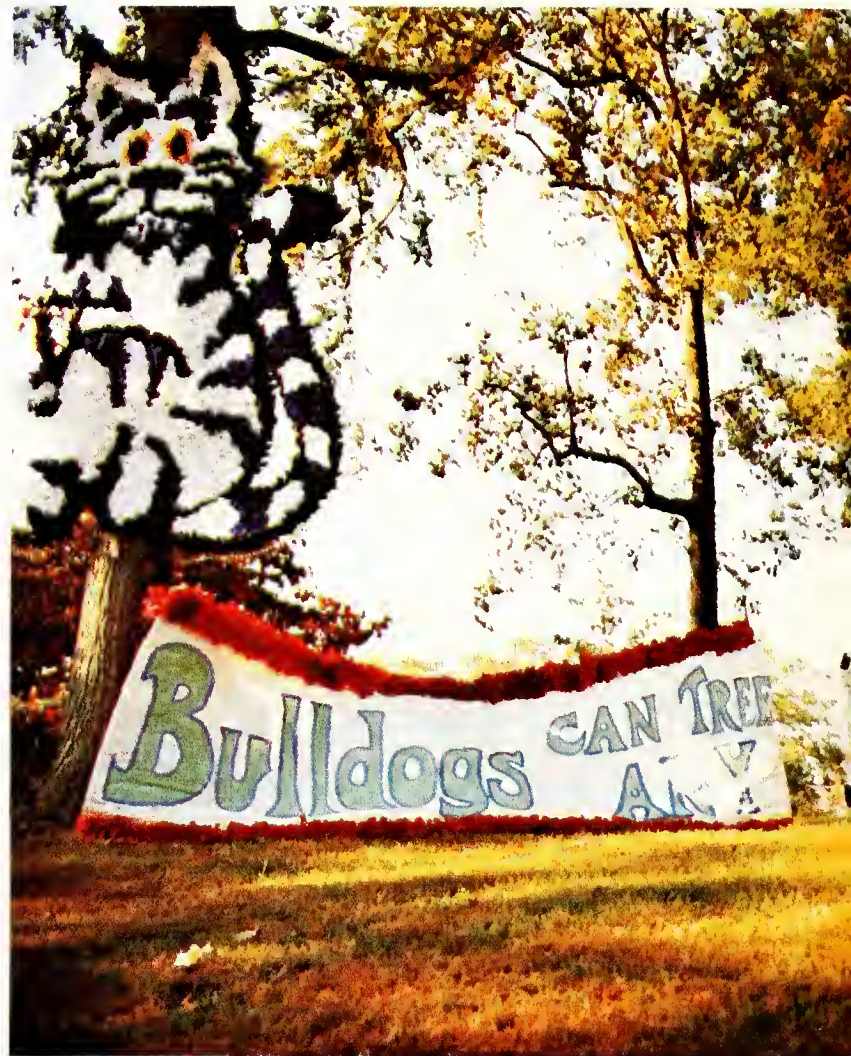

"I only like one coach all of the time, course, you have to act like you like them!"

"I've never been one to fight publicity."

"We get crank phone calls all the time ... the Gay Liberation Front guys seem to have a lot of McWhorter phone numbers."

"Irk Russell always tells a joke that has something to do with the game. One game when our defense got run through real bad, he told a joke about Mumbo Cook and stopping up holes!"

"Before a game Irk Russell always does 'Bull in the Ring' where one guy in the middle butts heads. That's real blood on his head. It really fires people up. He's a big inspiration to the team."

"It's not like you have an understanding boss, you have these irate coaches that go on after you, hollerin' and screamin'. I would hate to have a job like that."

"It's getting to be a tradition now, the same pep talk that Dooley gives every game. He always ends his pep talk with, 'In the final analysis, it's not whether you're on the offensive team, the defensive team, or the specialty team, it's that you're on the Georgia Bulldog Team, where they're all for one, and one for all.' Funny thing is, I heard his brother says the same thing."

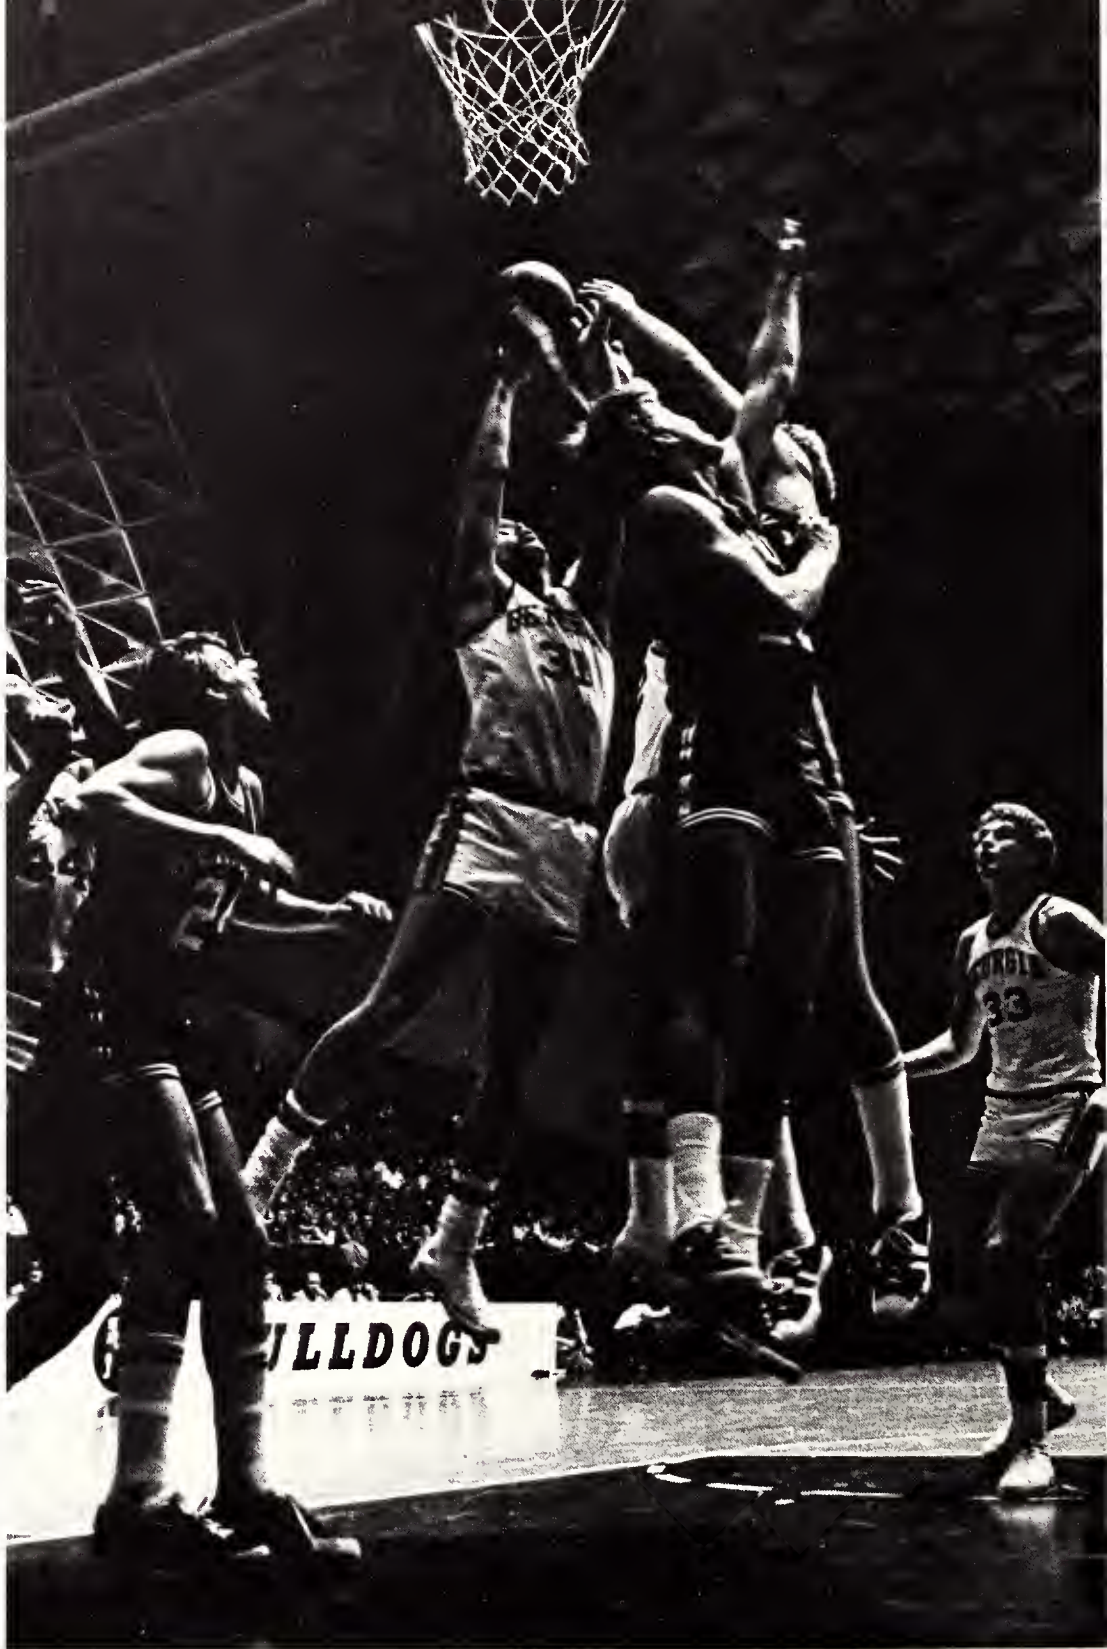

This year for the first time women at the University of Georgia were able to compete in intercollegiate athletics in six organized sports: volleyball, basketball, swimming, gymnastics, golf and tennis. This expanded program was made possible as a result of a $15,000 grant given to the women's program by the Athletic Association.

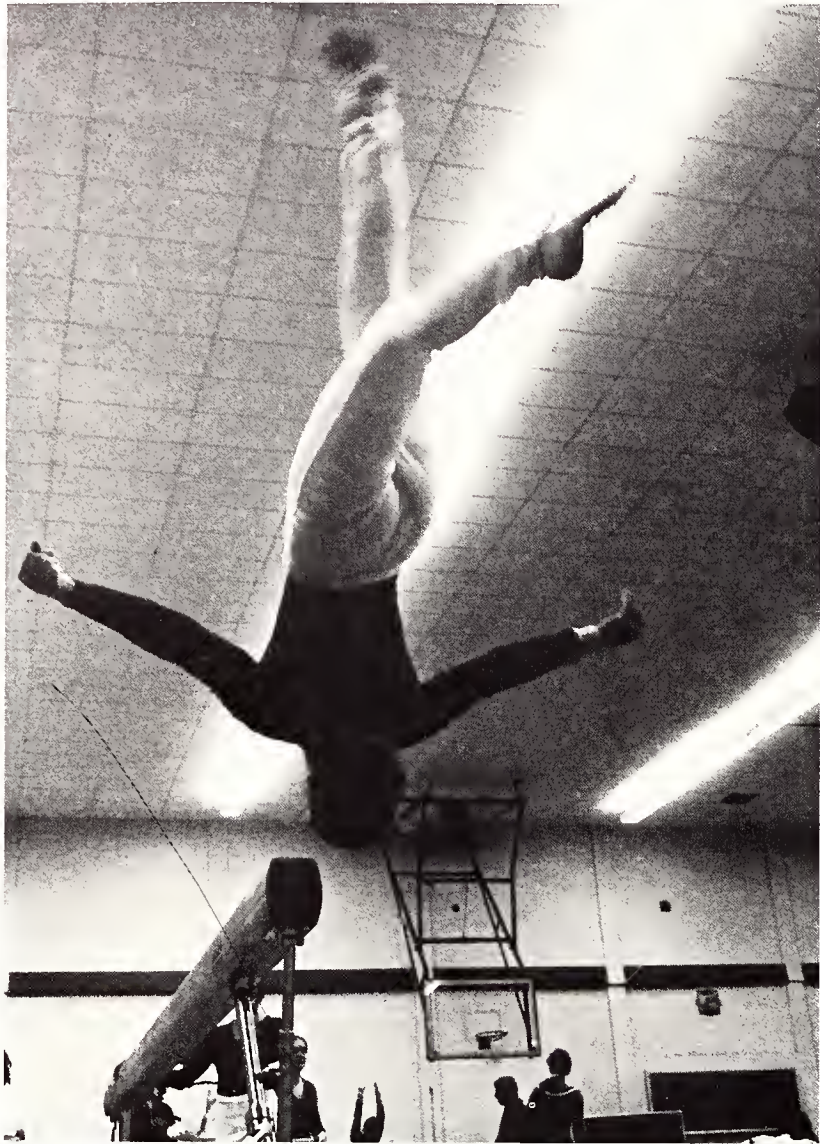

The grant, given for one year only, was intended by the Athletic Association to sample participation and interest and to see how well a women's program could be handled on campus.

For a year the women had to scrounge for uniforms and transportation, share practice time and facilities, and wonder if there was even going to be a next year for the program. There was no money for coaches' salaries, bookkeepers, secretaries, public relations or information. Finally the Athletic Association voted to include the women's athletic program in its organization, assuring the program of both funds and a future.

The women's athletic movement, though in the works for some time, was speeded along by a complaint registered by seven University students with the department of Health, Education and Welfare, claiming discrimination in athletics by the University on the basis of sex. Because of this complaint, the athletic operations at the University were investigated, and Georgia has become a testing ground for the future of women's athletic programs around the country.

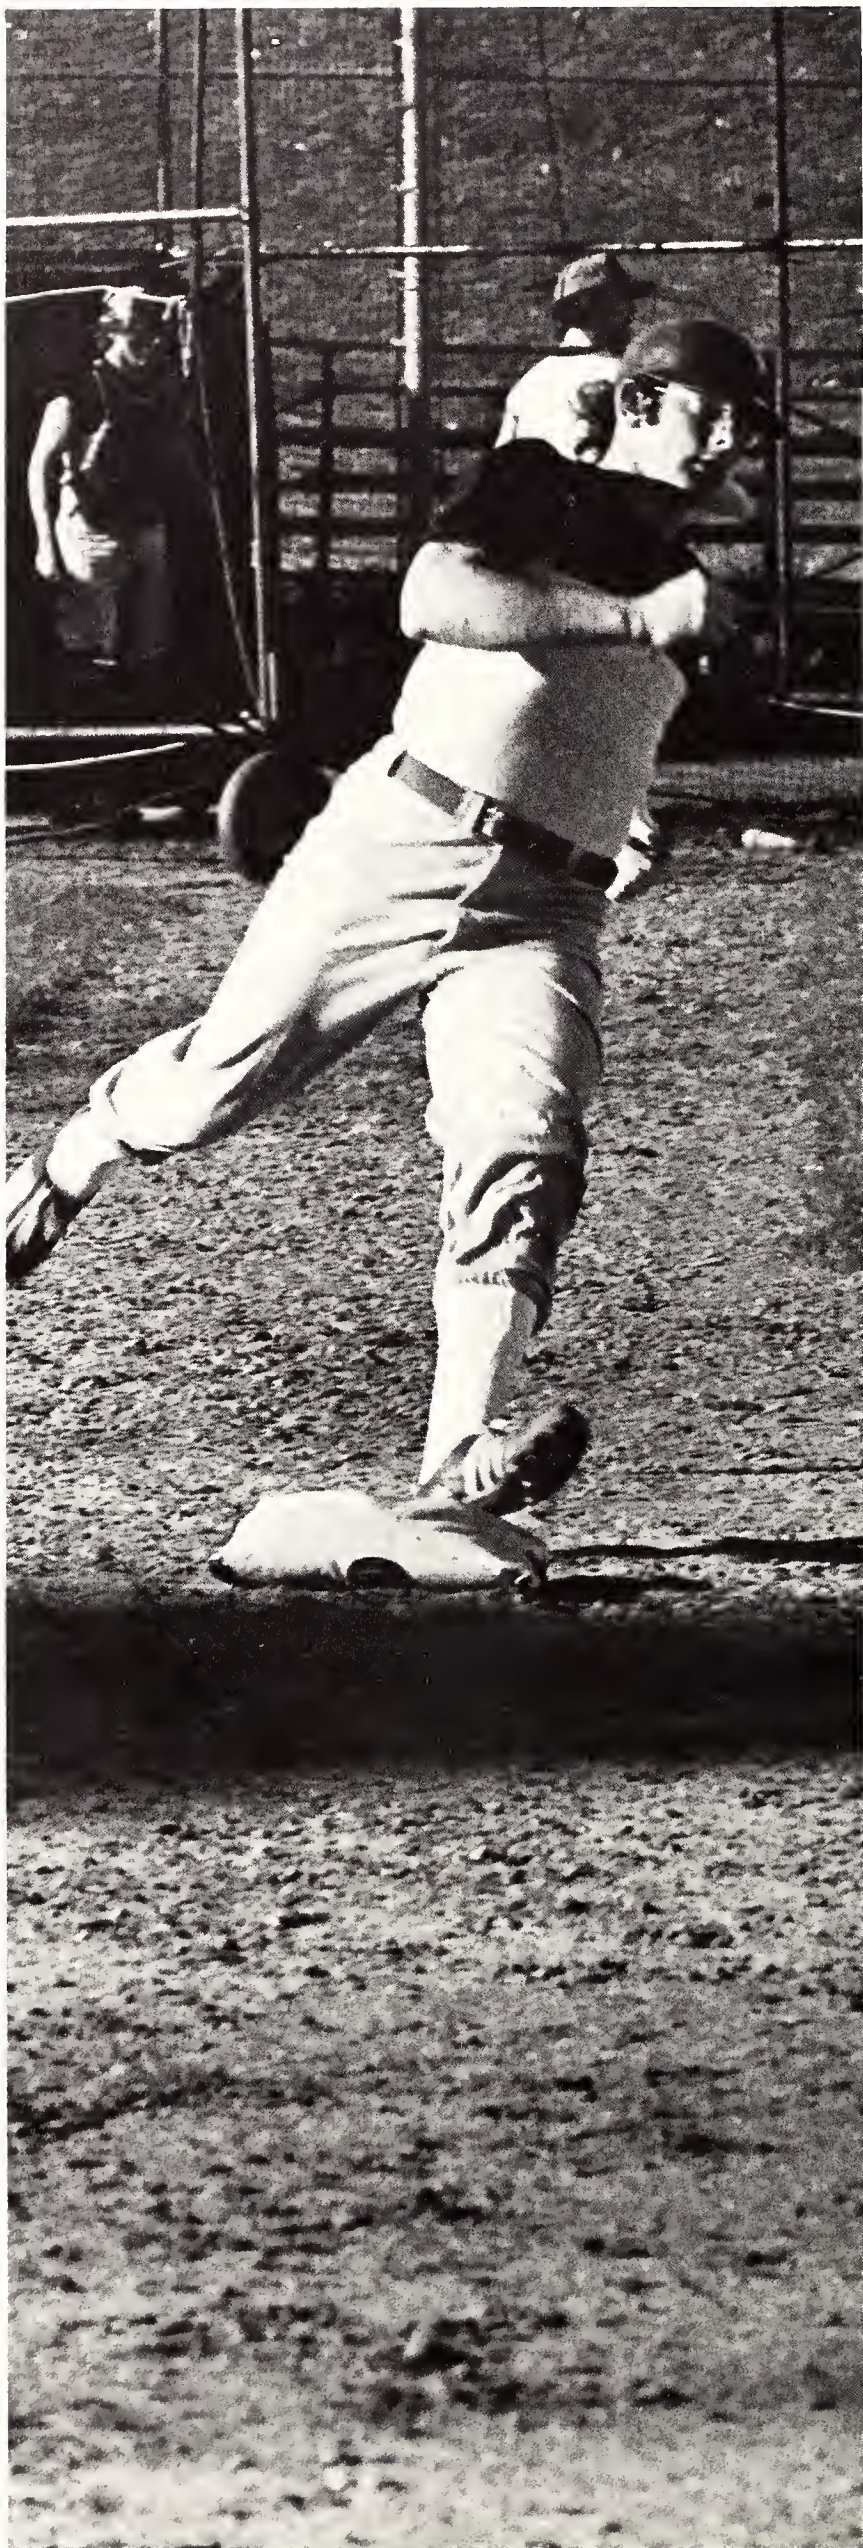

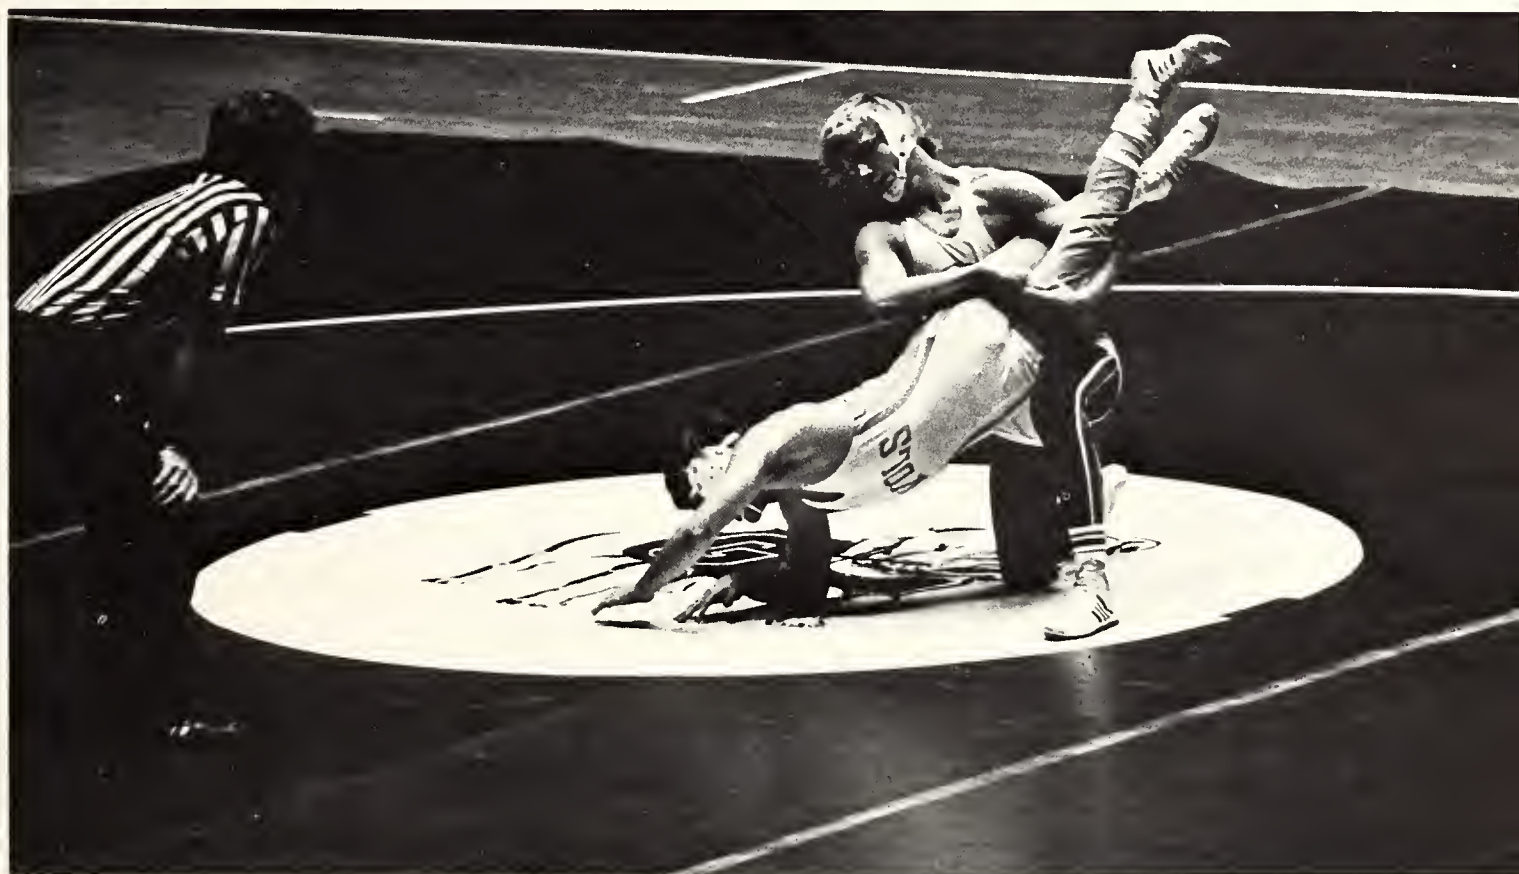

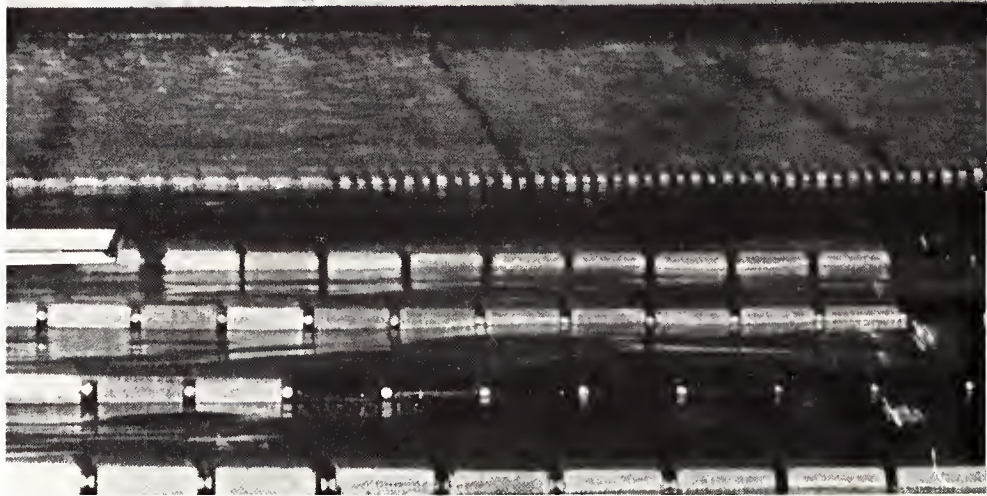

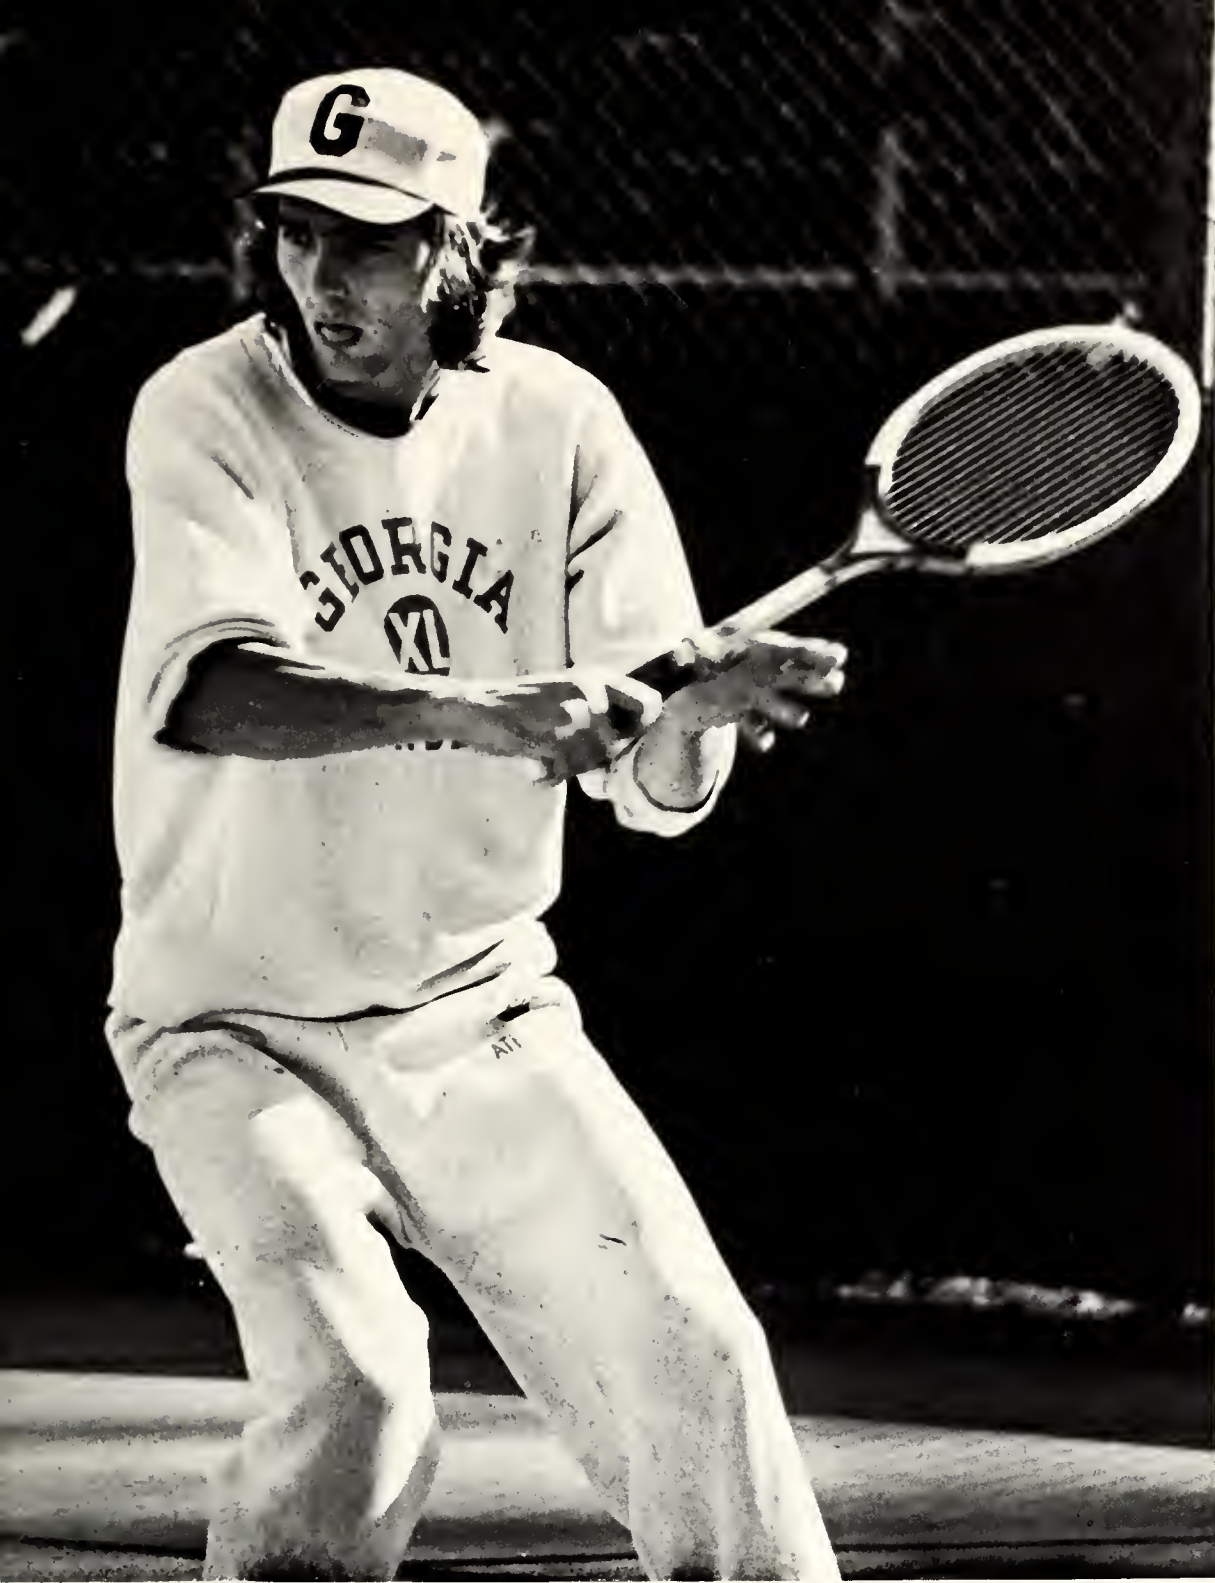

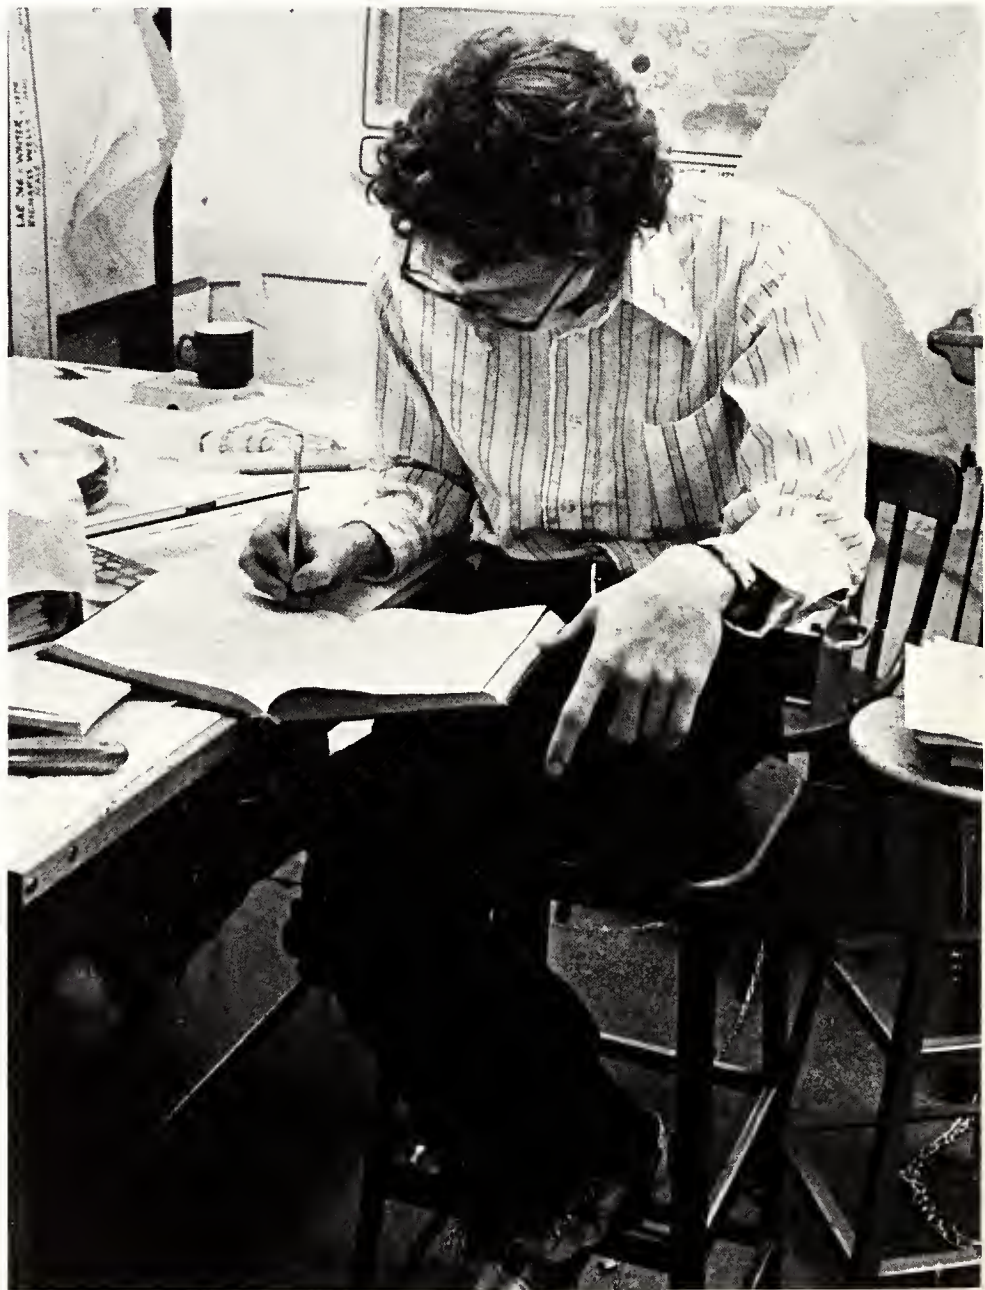

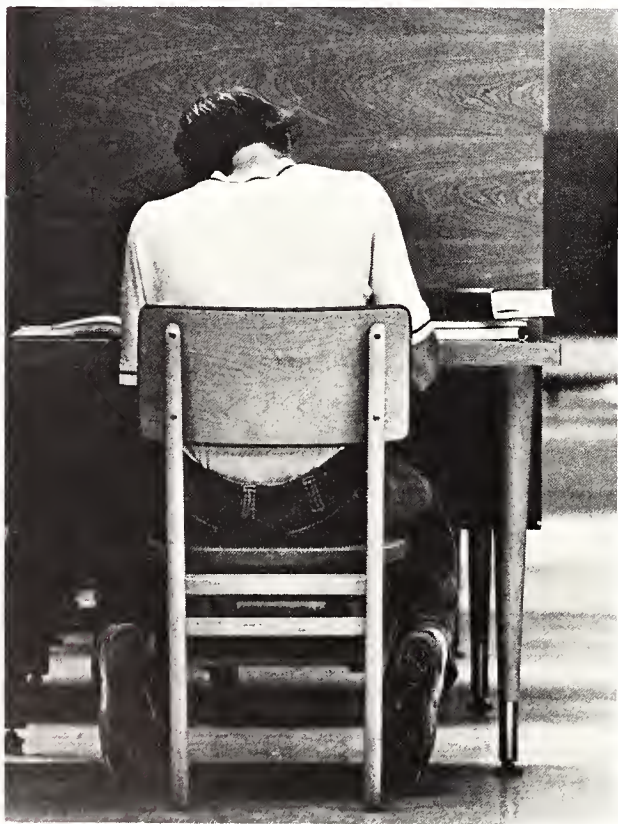

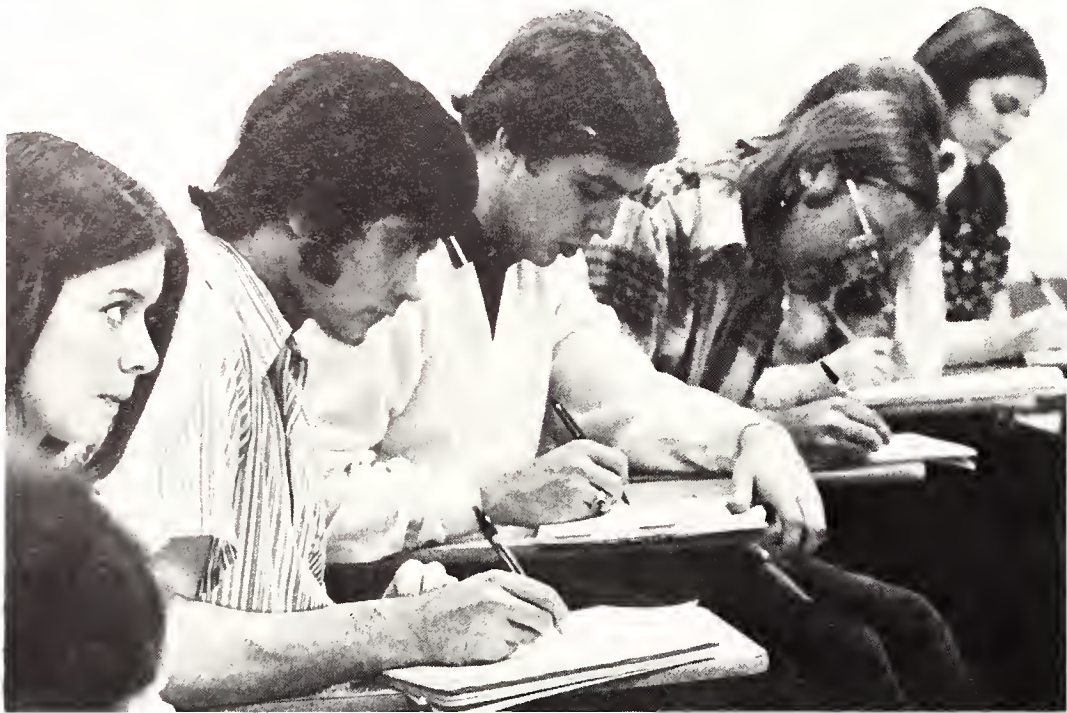

"One student at the University has his grandparents die twenty-two times during his four years here. I usually require my students to bring back a newspaper clipping of the obituary."

"One professor I have liked to entertain us. She frequently had a record or had someone to sing for us before class started. She really likes her students."

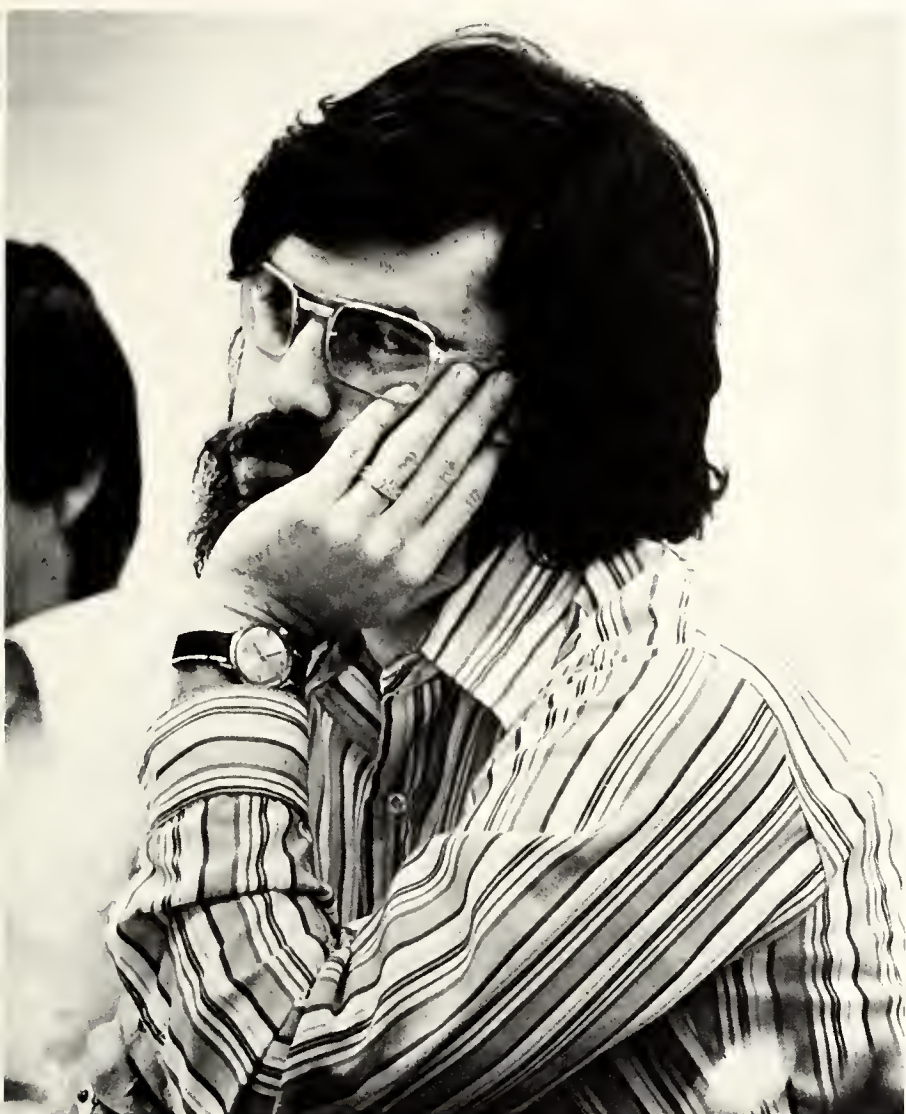

"One instructor never announced his test; he just popped them on us. He said he wanted to test our knowledge and not our study habits."

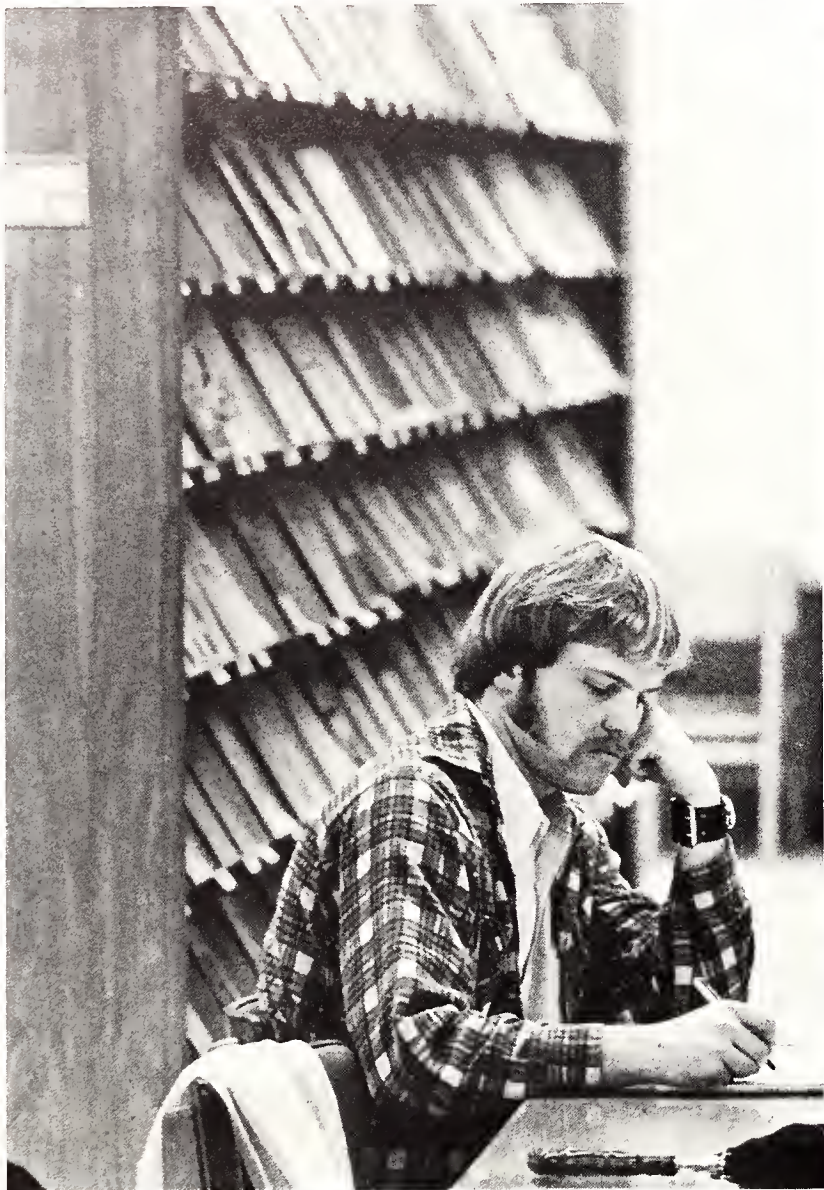

"It's really embarrassing to fall asleep in class. Once, while watching a film, I fell off my stool."

"One guy fell asleep in the library and got locked in. He had to call the Campus Cops to get someone to get him out."

"I had one very old math professor. Our class loved to irritate him. One day this guy's frat brother came to class and while the professor was explaining a problem on the board, this guy's brother slipped an animal mask on. The professor chased him out of class and down the hall trying to catch him."

"Students should be more discreet with the excuses they give for missing exams. One student was constantly missing them. I caught him when he told me he was in the hospital. The time before that he was attending a Christian Scientist Conference."

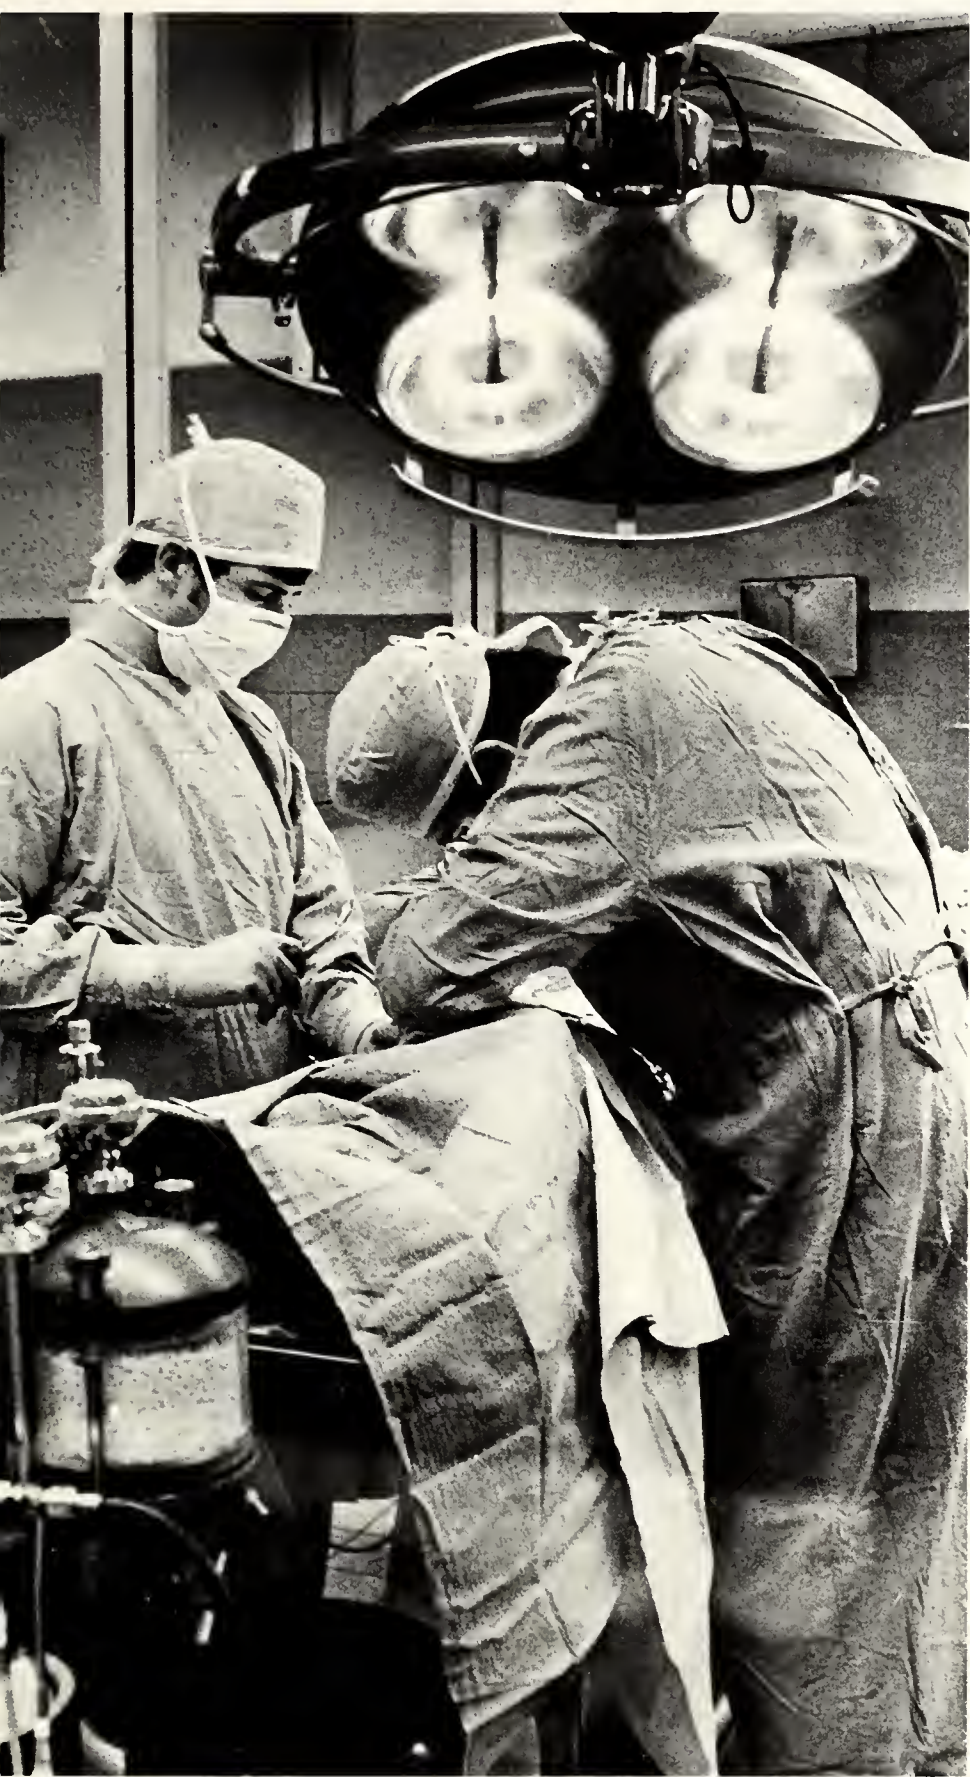

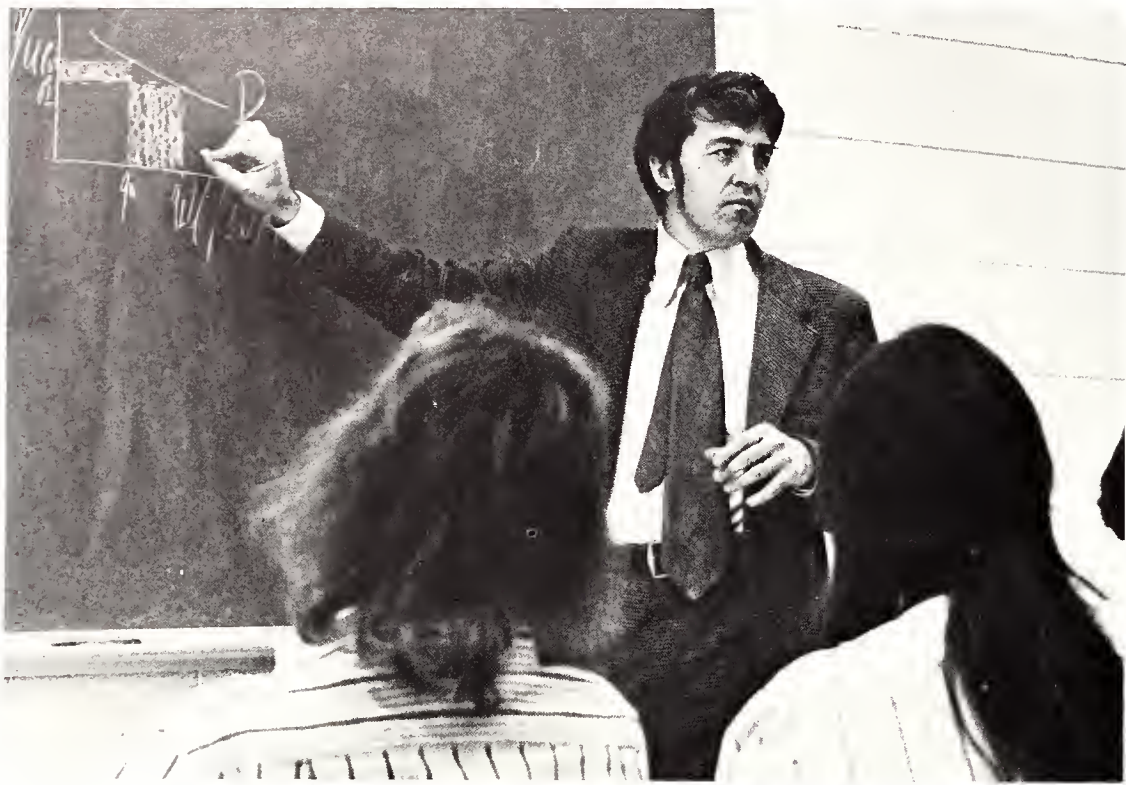

"My math professor thought that all Georgia students have calculators and drive new convertibles."

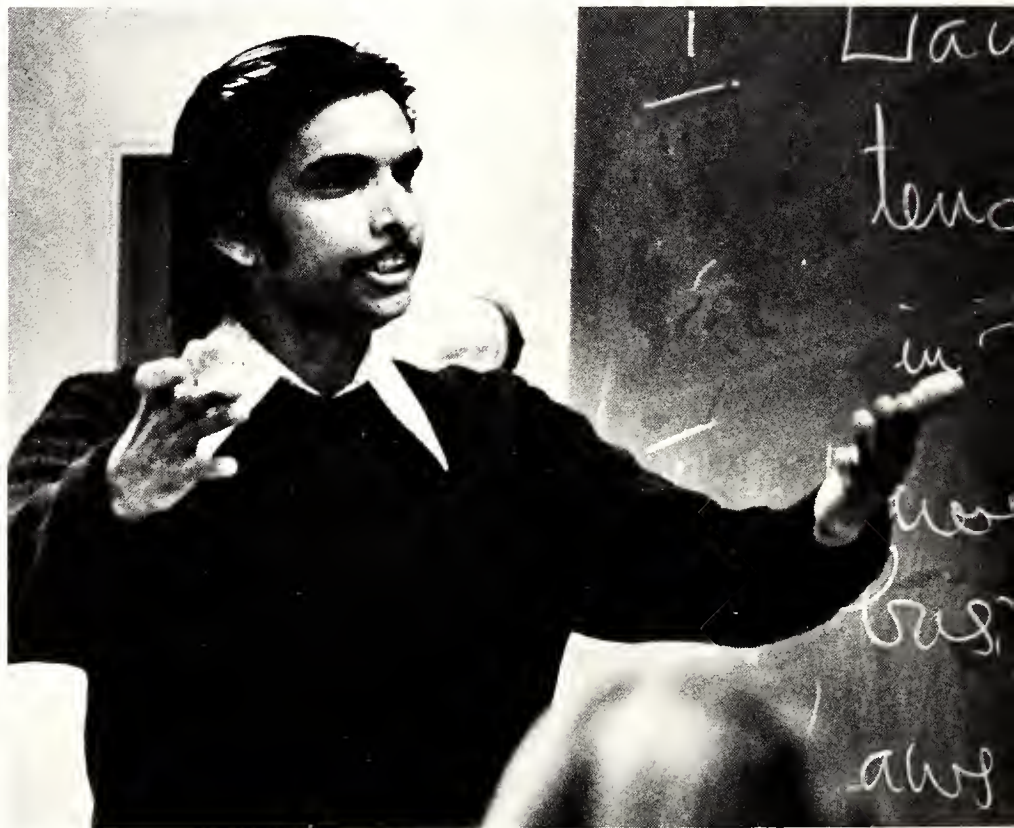

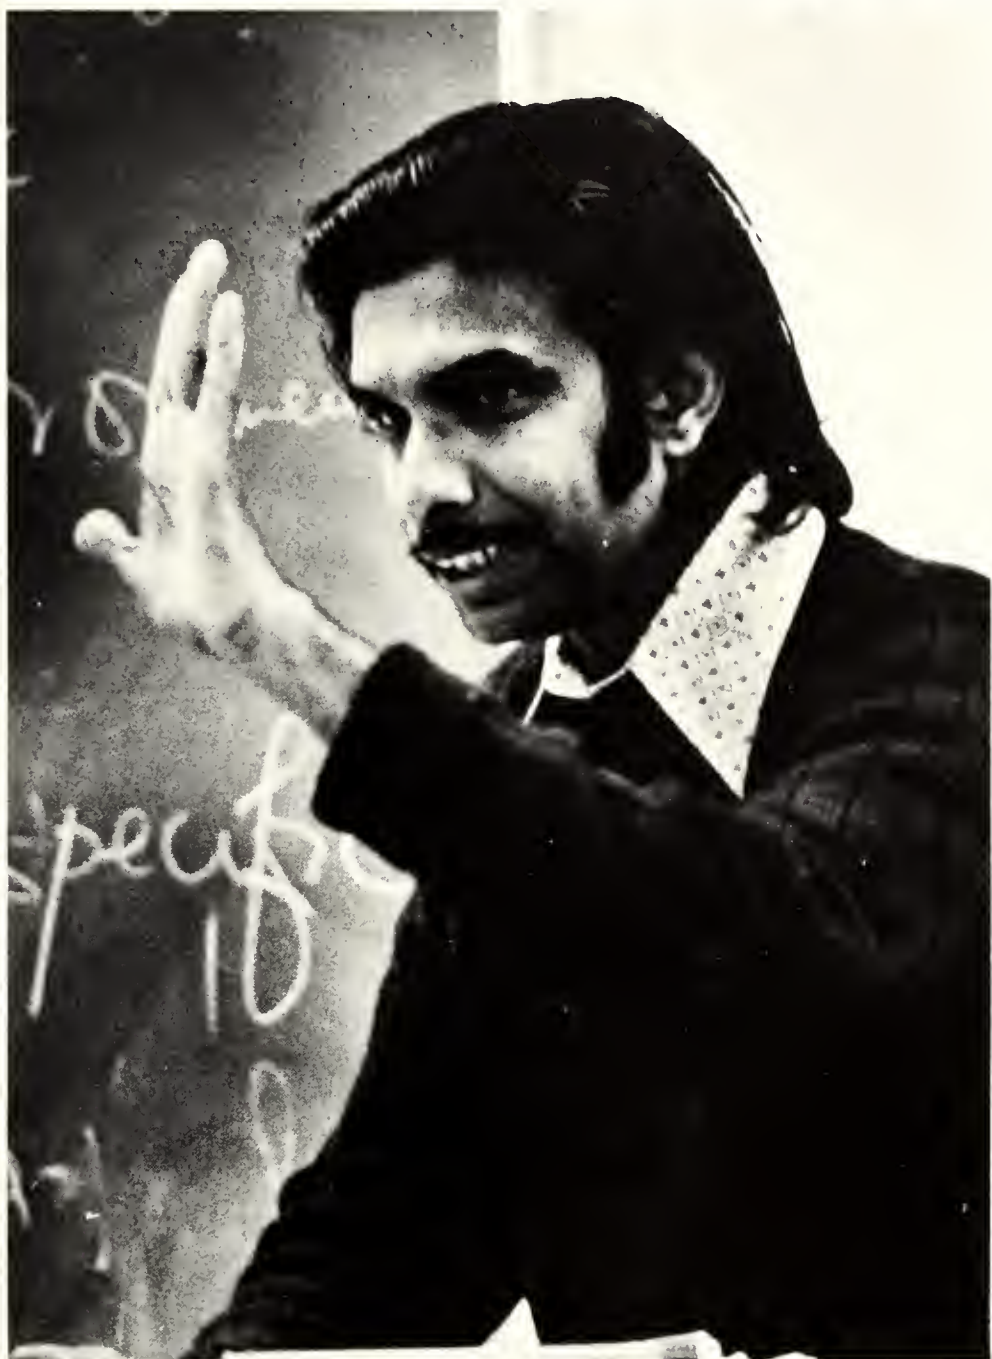

"My roommate used a green tint make-up once when she wasn't prepared for an exam. She looked so horrible that her teacher offered to drive her home. What a way to get out of an exam!"

"I usually am not very restrictive of what my students do in class. It doesn't distract me. But one day a girl in my class removed her shoes and socks, propped her feet up in the chair in front of her and began clipping her toenails. I still remember that girl's name."

"The girl who sat beside me in one class answered a question on an exam with 'Only God knows the answer to this question.' Her paper came back with 'God gets A; you get F!' written on it."

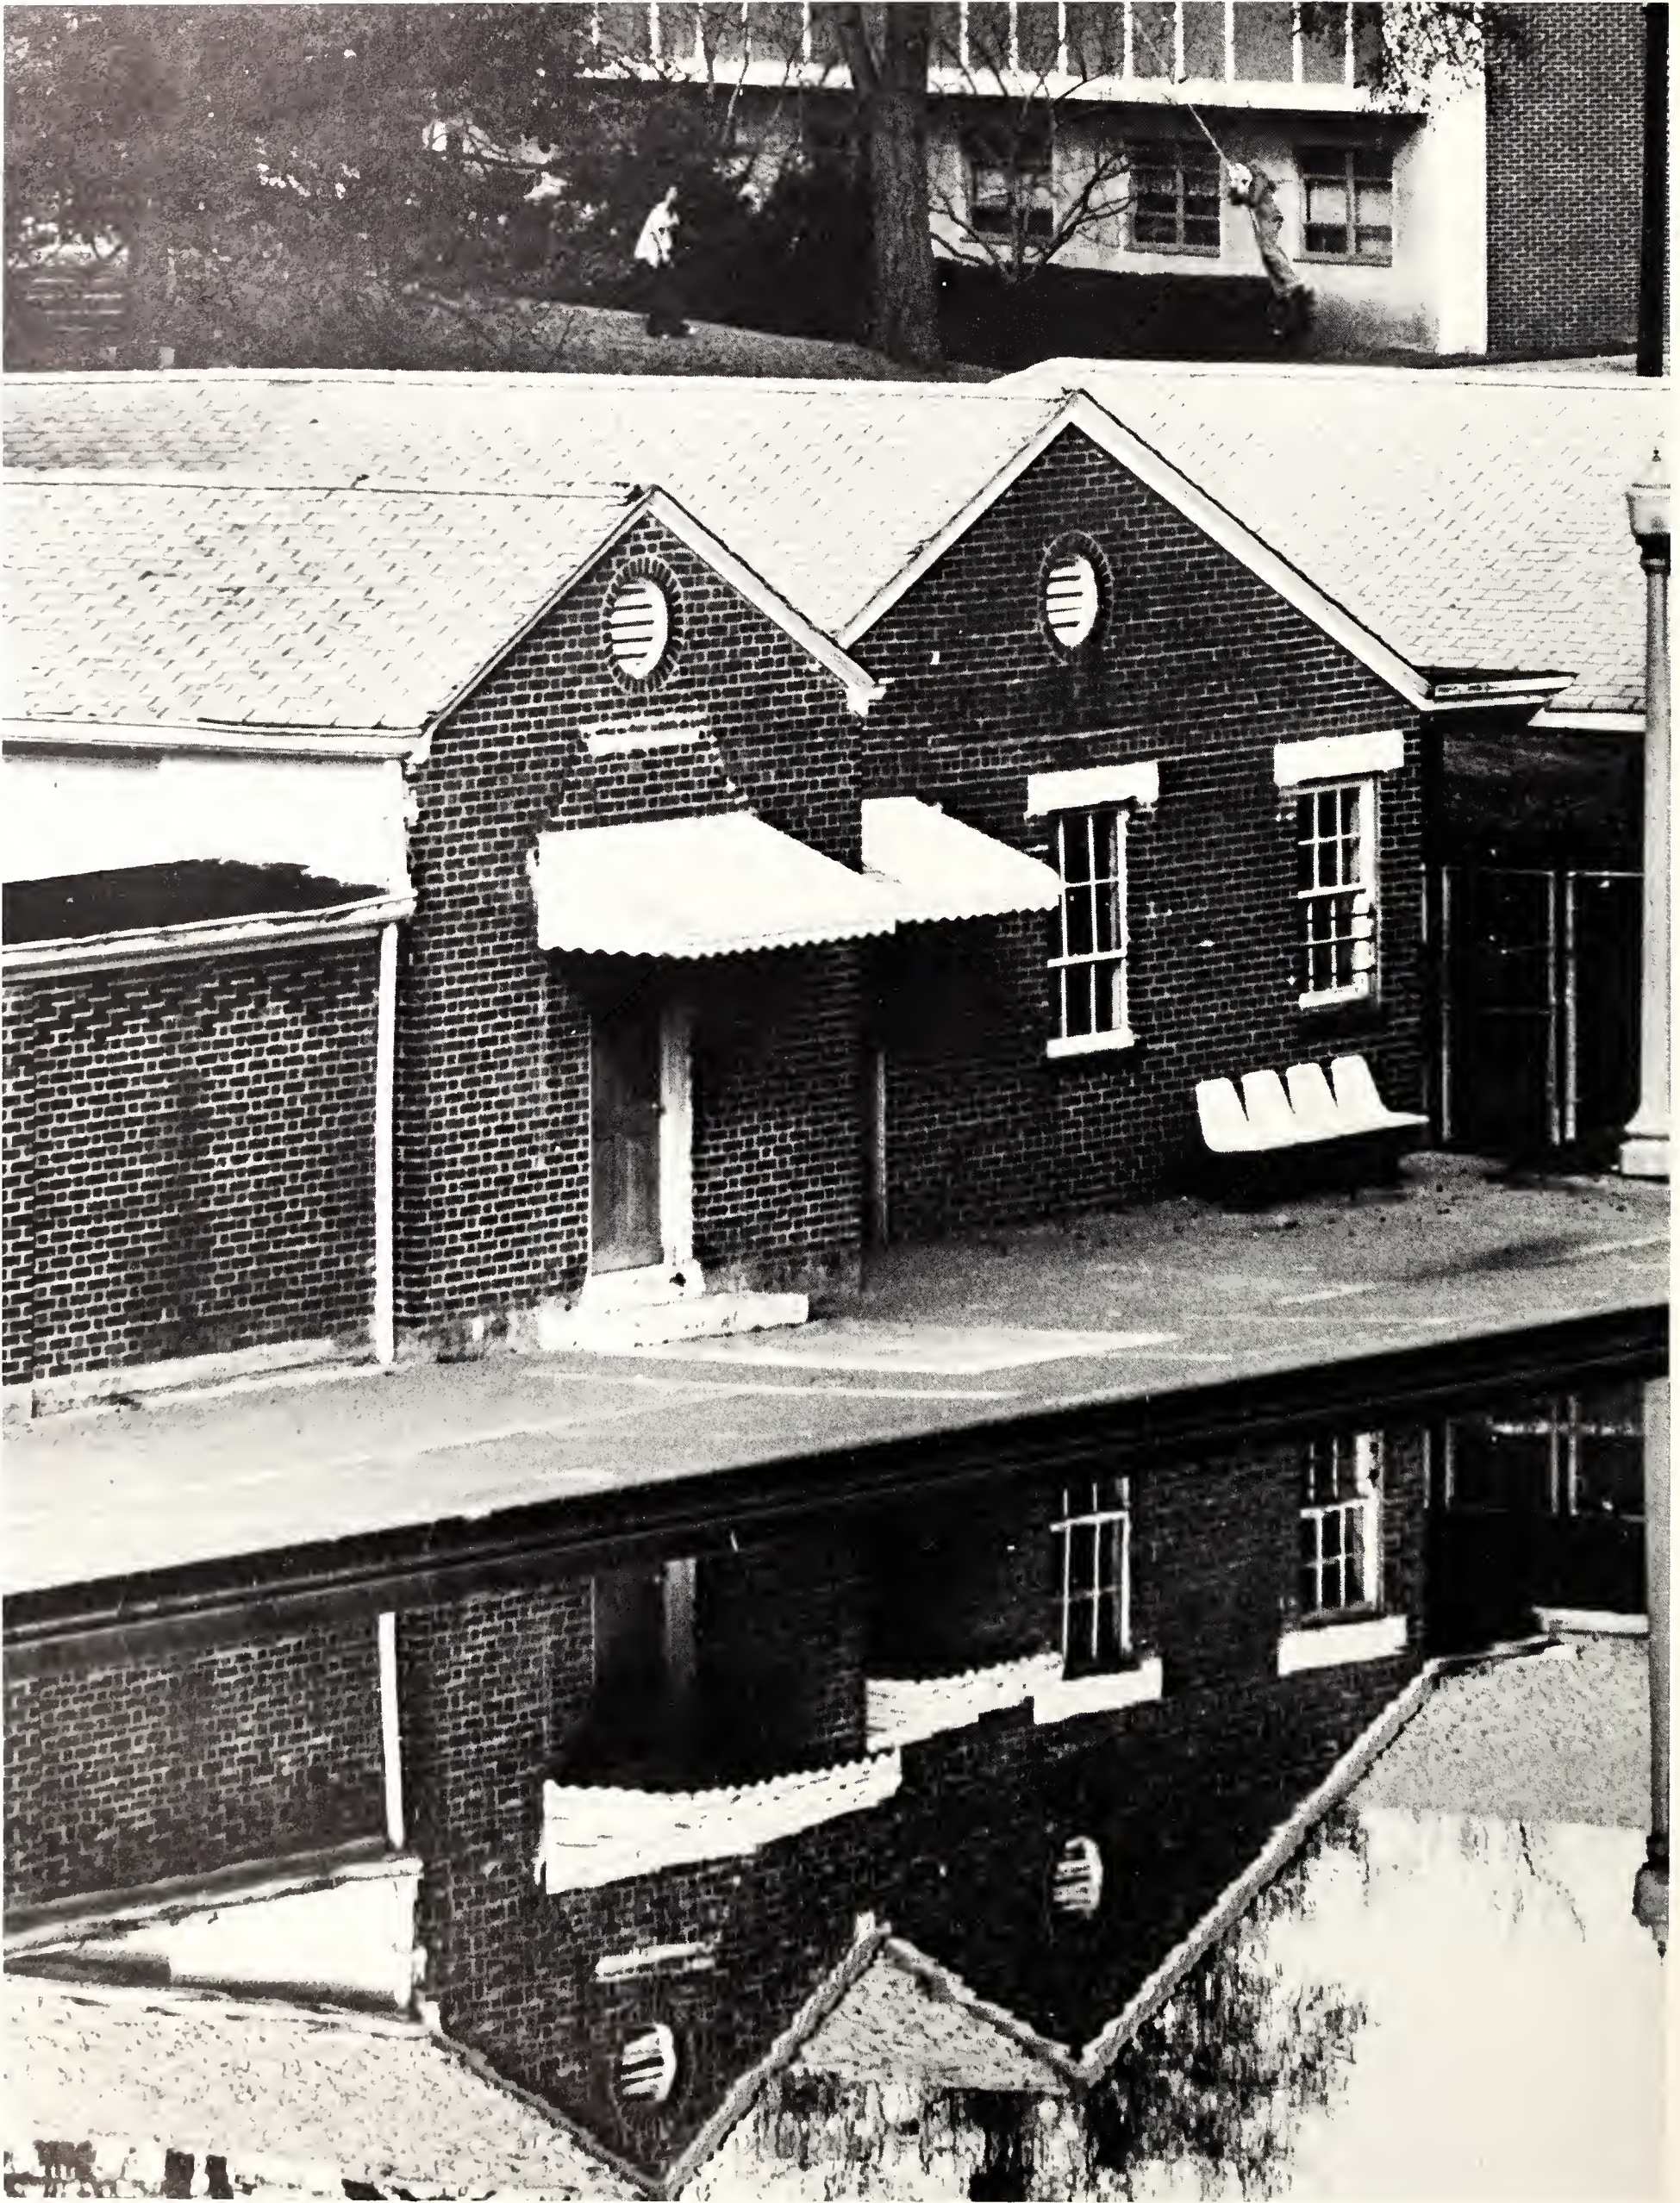

"One professor I had developed a style to picking his nose in class. He was so elegant about it."

BY BRAD MCCOLL

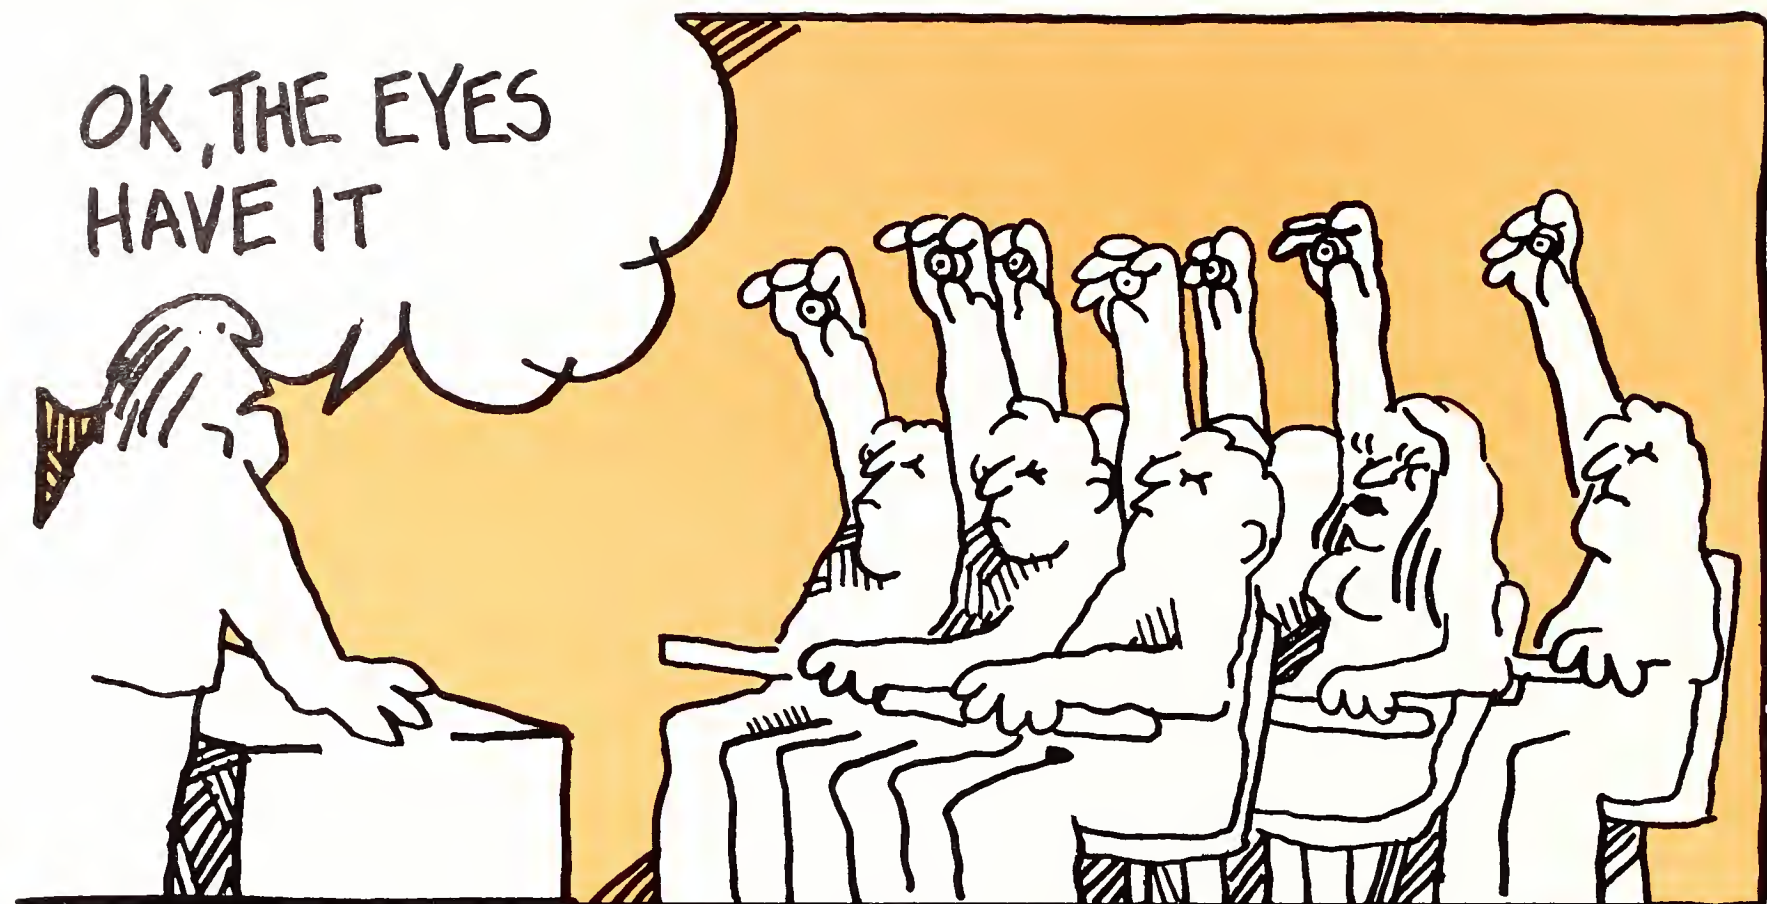

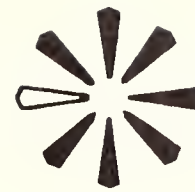

PLATFORM

Since its inception in 1972, Coalition has been dedicated to offering viable alternatives and improvements to existing policies affecting the life and well-being of the University community, to promoting progressive and innovative responses to the changing needs of the campus and the community.

Coalition is based upon a continuing confidence in the students of this university, and their ability to make useful contributions — to apply constructive efforts — for the betterment of the campus and the community through the imaginative and responsible use of all available resources and facilities, including the Student Government association.

An effective, responsive Student Government Association cannot exist without forceful leadership dedicated to the best possible representation of student priorities in all administrative and academic matters affecting students. Coalition will not compromise students' rights; nor will we confuse weakness with "diplomacy" when the interests of students are at stake.

Acknowledging the lack of real leadership in Student Government in the past, and recognizing the potential of Student Government as one of several channels available to respond to the needs and interests of students, Coalition therefore faces the obligation to help realize the full potential of Student Government — by supporting strong, dedicated candidates for the Senate, and by offering for the top executive posts the three best qualified candidates: Steve Patrick, David Bell, and Susan Fansier.

For this reason, the following specific points are presented, not just on their own merits (for many of these proposals will be supported by other groups and individuals), but on the strength of the capabilities, the determination, and the vitality of Coalition's candidates for Student Government office.

SPECIFIC POINTS

Academics: The present structure, goals, and methods of university academic policies need to be re-evaluated. In light of expanding student needs, a thorough re-examination must be conducted of the current grading system, curriculum requirements, academic credit, drop-take procedures, and course material selection. Coalition strongly endorses the concept of a Free University, optional pass / fail grading in all courses for all students, and the development of independent study courses in all departments.

Housing: Coalition believes in progressive student-oriented housing programs. We intend to work for the elimination of the sophomore residency requirement and we support the efforts of the Committee of 6,000 in this regard. Self-determination in dormitory regulations, alternate life-styles, and the use of Hall Council funds must be realized. Dormitory residents should be given a strong voice in selecting the R.A. and G.R. staffs. Physical and recreational facilities in dormitories must be improved. Coalition will use all resources to eliminate the archaic attitudes which govern the operation of dormitories.

Allocations: Students must have complete control of the allocation of Student Activities fees. All personnel funded from the Student Activities fees should be hired and fired by students. If the Activities fee cannot be rescued from Administration control, it must be made voluntary.

Health Services: University Health Services should be expanded and quality upgraded. Health services should be extended to the spouses and dependents of students. Coalition will seek establishment of a better abortion-referral program, free pap tests and gynecological examinations, and free distribution of contraceptives and information to all students.

Transportation: Coalition supports a cooperative effort on the part of the University and the Athens community to solve the problems of parking and transportation. The University must provide an additional Milledge Avenue bus, as well as increased perimeter bus service. Innovative measures, such as car-pool priority systems, must be examined to solve on-campus parking problems, and dormitory residents should have the opportunity of parking near their dormitories.

Library: The library checkout system must be streamlined and a more flexible range of services and policies examined to insure responsiveness to student needs. The library and its companion snack-bar facility should remain open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Services: Auxiliary Enterprises must be held accountable to the students it serves, and measures should be taken to insure strict budget accountability and student input.

Day Care: The present day care facility should be expanded and use of it extended to dependents of all students, regardless of marital status, economic condition, or sexual preference. The university should provide similar facilities for the faculty and all employees, subject to the same conditions.

Married Students: Coalition pledges its complete support to the Married Student Council. Rent in married housing units should be stabilized, and married housing facilities should be made available to all students with dependent children, regardless of their current marital status.

Minorities: All minorities — Blacks, Gays, Native Americans, Chicanos, Jews, International Students, and others — must be afforded opportunities to play a meaningful role in University life. Oppressive attitudes only stunt the growth of the University. Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, creed, color, national origin, or sexual preference with respect to dances and social programs, employment practices, recruitment, and treatment by official University personnel must be ended. We support the establishment of an International House, and we advocate the abolition of Saturday classes in deference to the religious beliefs of a significant number of students on this campus.

Blacks: The University must make positive efforts to secure increased black enrollments. To this end the employment of more black faculty members and administrators is essential. The Black Studies Program must be expanded, courses offered more frequently, and the quality of instruction improved. Black students should be free to choose a black advisor if they so wish. Coalition will actively work with the BSU to establish a Black Cultural Center, which we regard as beneficial to the educational life of the entire University community.

Women: The University perpetuates sexist stereotypes which are personally degrading to women and which fail to recognize women on an equal basis with men. There must be a larger number of women faculty members and administrators in both high and low level positions to serve as role models and destroy offensive stereotype myths. In the area of academics women should have the right to choose women advisors. Women's studies must be expanded to include more than just a few scattered programs and the University should adopt a single admissions standard for both men and women. Discriminatory enforcement of residence hall policies must be abolished and a dormitory must be secured for women graduate students. In health care, women should have the option of choosing female gynecologists, physicians, psychologists, and psychiatrists. Coalition pledges to support the efforts of W.O.M.E.N. and the women's committee of the A.A.U.P. to improve the status of all women; to help establish a women's ideas and issues committee made up of women to present women-oriented programs; to promote ratification of the E.R.A.; to support the establishment of a women's center in the community.

Gays: Coalition is sensitive to the problems faced by gays at the University and recognizes the need for expanded counseling services. The SGA Senate Committee on Minority Affairs should act as an advisory board in filling vacancies in Mental Health Services, Counseling, and the Psychology Clinic. We also support the efforts of the Committee on Gay Education to establish a self-help facility to effectively handle personal crises related to the oppression of gays. The ROTC program will be investigated by SGA to determine the accuracy of charges of discrimination against gay and other minority students. The University should refuse to allow the use of its facilities by recruiters of the armed services so long as these groups officially discriminate against gays.

Veterans: Through Coalition's efforts, a Minister to Veterans Affairs has been appointed to SGA. We endorse the efforts of veterans' organizations on campus, and we support establishment of work-study positions to provide veteran-to-veteran counseling and information services to the University's veteran population.

Athletics: Coalition supports the rights of all athletes as students, and holds that these rights pre-empt the regulations set by the Athletic Association. We insist upon greater student control over athletic policies and fund allocations so long as the athletic fees are mandatory. Discriminatory practices against women athletes must be stopped and equal funding for women — including scholarships as well as facilities — must be incorporated in the Athletic Association's budget. Coalition recognizes discrimination against black athletes, and we demand greater efforts to recruit black athletes. We urge that all physical education courses be offered to both men and women.

Out-of-State Tuition: Residency requirements for in-state tuition should be the same as residency requirements for voting.

Financial Aid: Financial aid of any kind must never be revoked as a result of a student's expression of dissent. We will attempt to implement a $100-per-student Confidential Emergency Loan Program for all students.

University Judiciary: A more broad and equitable judicial system is needed so complaints may be brought against administration and faculty as well as students. In general, the University Judiciary should concern itself with complaints directly related to the functioning of the University. To this end, the University police should not be regarded as an extension of Athens or Clarke County law enforcement agencies. We also support the principle of protection against double jeopardy with regard to student offenses: a student who faces legal action in civil or criminal court should not be required to face similar action in the University Judiciary.

Legal Counsel: The Student Government Association should retain a licensed attorney, to be selected by a committee of students, for the purpose of representing students in legal cases not directly involved with the University. Such cases may range from landlord-tenant disputes to drug arrests to consumer action suits.

Legal Defense Fund: An independent legal defense fund should be set up to assist students in defending their rights in court. This fund would be used to help finance suits brought against individuals, businesses, or the University on behalf of the entire student body.

University Senate: Coalition supports the Student Senate's recommendation for the establishment of a University Council, to be made up of 100 members — consisting of 21 students, 62 faculty, 7 workers, and 10 administrators.

Legislative Liaison: Coalition has succeeded in forming a Student Senate lobbying group whose responsibility it is to maintain close contact with the legislative and executive branches of state government. We will extend our lobbying activities to the Board of Regents, the University Council, alumni and parents, thereby expanding the scope of student effectiveness.

Registration and Voting: Coalition will continue voter registration efforts in the community so that students will have real power — beyond the campus — to effect improvements for the entire community. Student Government facilities will be used to inform students as to how they may participate in electoral politics and how they may become candidates for local and state office.

Environment: Coalition was instrumental last year in creating a cabinet post for environmental affairs, but greater use of student talents, energy, and leadership is needed to clean up our environment. The University of Georgia should serve as a model for a clean environment. Coalition will continue to work for the abolition of those practices in University facilities which are ecologically unsound, concentrating particularly upon implementation of University recycling and waste disposal programs. Where necessary, the Minister for Environmental Affairs should seek legal counsel to bring court action against polluters.

Cultural Affairs: The University and the Board of Regents must give top priority to construction of a new fine arts, multi-purpose auditorium and renovation of Memorial Hall. Both facilities should be open on a 24-hour basis. We will work to lift the restriction against the sale of alcoholic beverages on campus. A committee will be established to investigate University-Union activities, expenditures, programs, and effectiveness, and to provide recommendations for improving responsiveness to student needs.

Affiliates: Coalition strongly endorses the affiliation of the SGA with the National Student Association, the Southern Universities Student Government Association, and the National Student Lobby to gain the advantage of national lobbying forces and a nationwide information source.

Information: The past SGA administration has significantly failed to keep students sufficiently informed of SGA actions. We therefore advocate reactivating the post of information Secretary, whose responsibility shall be to publish a newsletter and distribute leaflets, as needed, in order to adequately inform the University community of the activities of the SGA and the Administration.

Media: The preservation of free and open campus media is a vital factor in nurturing the spirit of a university. The past year has seen several attempts to suppress the campus media. To forestall the possibility of censorship, Coalition urges the abolition of the Board of Student Communications and will work for the selection of media staff by student committees. As a safeguard against student censorship, we favor the adoption of a policy which would require a two-thirds vote of the Student Senate to reduce media budget requests to an amount less than that of the previous year's budget.

University Employees: The right of workers to unionize must be upheld. Further, the wages of all University employees should be raised to a minimum, decent living rate of $2.50 per hour. Coalition will also work for the official adoption of equal-work-equal-pay policies in all areas of the University.

Faculty: The present promotional guidelines for faculty members are unfair to both faculty and students, because they place exaggerated emphasis upon publication and research. Far greater importance must be attached to teaching ability. Faculty members should have more freedom to develop new class structures and procedures. Loyalty oaths must be abolished. Faculty members should not have to answer to administrative officials for their private actions. All administrative decisions directly affecting the faculty must be approved by an elected committee of faculty members.

Student/Faculty Relations: Students and faculty must work together to promote the development of their mutual influence in University operations. Coalition will actively seek closer student/faculty relations through the operations of the college councils and by advancing faculty-related concerns through the SGA. Ultimate goals include joint hiring-firing, promotion, and tenure committees to make binding recommendations to the Administration.

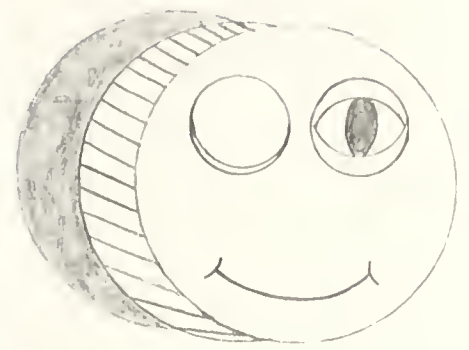

Orientation Program: The present orientation program needs re-evaluation to provide for more representative selection of orientation leaders and to permit dissemination of information about all campus and community organizations, facilities, and life-styles. The program should aim to present a more accurate view of student life in the University Athens community.

Direction: The University's primary function is to provide education for its constituents in a free, open environment. "Both to teach and to inquire into the nature of things" is the University's motto. Students and faculty, upon whom the existence of this university is predicated, should share the balance of institutional power, and their views should provide the basis for establishment of policies and programs of the University. In academic environment, administrators should limit themselves to response and implementation of proposals decided upon by faculty and students. They should administer — not dictate — programs and policies.

To this end, and to the pursuit of total, integrated improvement in all areas of student concern, Coalition pledges our strongest possible efforts. In those efforts, we pledge to present the truth and to act in a spirit of good will and love. We stand solidly in support of the rights of individuals to express their opinions, the right to dissent, and the freedoms traditionally associated with the University community, and we reaffirm our dedication to the principle of non-violence, always.

SALVATION

PLATFORM

Since its birth in 1974, Salvation has been dedicated to making demands for changes in existing policies affecting the life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness of several members of the University Community.

Acknowledging the total lack of responsibility and leadership in past Student Governments, and recognizing the POWER allotted to the Student Government, we offer our strong, dedicated, trustworthy, brave, thrifty, clean, and loyal candidate persons.

GRADING SYSTEM: Salvation favors the abolishment of the current letter grading system and supports the establishment of the "stick on star" system of rating. Under this system each professor will be allocated a 20 case supply of gold, red, and blue stars quarterly to be distributed among his students as he sees fit. Police protection must be provided for each gold star student to insure that both he/she and his/her gold star make it home to Momma safely.

HOUSING: Salvation believes in progressive student oriented housing programs. Therefore, we intend to work for the institution of the Harrad and Premar proposals in all university housing units. But, for those closed-minded, conservative, redneck oriented people, we will allow four rooms in Creswell and Milledge Halls in which 24 hour open house will be strictly enforced.

ALLOCATIONS: Salvation endorses full student control of all University monies.

BUS SERVICE: Salvation demands air shuttle service from Park Hall to Memorial every 10 minutes. We also suggest that, considering the needs of the Milledge Avenue passengers, this service be reduced to a once-a-week, one-way trip.

PARKING: Salvation demands that an additional 10,000 parking places be added at the University before Fall Quarter 1974 in order to adequately handle the automobiles used by our students, faculty, and staff and to allow for a private parking space for each student. This proposal would boost the security of the individual, and would do away with the need for University Mental Health Services.

ECOLOGY: Salvation demands that the University return 100 acres of the University to its original, natural state, that the stream under Sanford Stadium be brought to the surface and purified, and that no additional buildings, pavement, or sidewalks be added to the University physical plant.

MINORITIES: All minorities — Blacks, Gays, Toad-suckers, Native Americans, Albanians, Chicanos, White Males, Jews, International Students, Baptists, People with six toes, Left-handed people, and others — must be afforded opportunities to play a meaningful role in University life. Oppressive attitudes stunt the growth of the University, not to mention the growth of the minority groups.

TOAD-SUCKERS: Salvation is sensitive to the needs of this group at UGA and promises to investigate the Biology 101 labs to determine the extent of discrimination against Toad-Suckers in this program. Salvation supports expanding counseling services for this group and the establishment of a $15,000 research fund to study the heartbreak of the common wart.

ALBANIANS: Salvation will actively work to establish an Albanian Cultural Center, and favors hiring more faculty members from Albany, Georgia. Salvation feels that addition of an Albanian Studies program is essential, specifically offering "The Art and Culture of South Georgia" and "Chevy Mechanics."

BLONDES: The dumb blonde stereotype must be destroyed, therefore Salvation favors bleaching the hair on the top 10% of the student body. The Blonde Studies program must be expanded to include courses in "How to have more fun" and "Root dyeing". Blonde students should have the right to choose blonde advisors and should be able to share facilities freely with red-heads and brunettes.

ATHLETICS: Salvation supports the rights of all students as athletes, and holds that these rights pre-empt the Athletic Association. Therefore, we demand the immediate disbanding of the Athletic Association, and the institution of a Student Athletic Association as a branch of the SGA. We feel that any form of physical activity should be regarded as a sport, and thus be funded by the Athletic fee. We also support the recruitment of a random sampling of the student population, without preference to skill, size, or physical completeness, to fill the positions on existing athletic teams.

OUT OF STATE TUITION: Out of State Tuition must be abolished to do away with discrimination against those residing in states other than Georgia. (Note: this offer void to those from Fair Play, South Carolina; Bangor, Maine; and Bucksport, Tennessee.)

ACTIVITY FEE: Salvation supports the abolishment of mandatory student activity fee and proposes a voluntary subscription rate to be paid by each student and later refunded to those students who do not participate in student activities. (Providing that the said students do not go to concerts, games, movies, or listen to WUOG, read the Red and Black, or set foot in Memorial Hall and that they apply for a refund within 24 hours after midnight, January 1.)

CULTURAL AFFAIRS: Salvation proposes the scheduling of at least 10 major concerts per quarter and contracting of groups more acceptable to the demands of students. Proposed groups include David Bowie, The Moody Blues, Amazing Amy Amazon, Bette Midler, and Janis Joplin. Salvation also demands that all concerts be free and that the University Union budget be cut, so as to allow for the funding of more popularly attended events, such as SGA Open House.

MEDIA: Salvation supports the full student financial support for the student media. However, if two or three members of the Student Senate dislike certain publications, we will approve the suspension of the allocation for that publication.

DAY CARE: Considering the great need of some 45 married student on campus and their 32 children who need day care services and cannot find them in Athens, Salvation proposes that the University build a $15 million day care facility to be conveniently located on Gaines School Road. Salvation also proposes the establishment of fifteen teaching positions, with a salary of $25,000 per position annually. This is necessary to provide the necessary student-teacher ratio of one-to-one.

AFFILIATES: Salvation strongly endorses the affiliation of SGA with the American Cancer Society for the purpose of promoting growth.

SOUTH CAMPUS: Salvation recognizes the existence of a South Campus at the University of Georgia and therefore, supports the urgent need for development of East, West, and North Campus.

FOOD SERVICES: Salvation highly recommends the abolition of the no seconds policy. We also suggest that the price of the evening meal be lowered to 35¢. We also demand "steak night" once a week. The serving lines and dining halls should remain open 24 hours a day.

Direction: Onward, Upward, Outward, Through, and Together.

Every litter hurts a bit!

University President Fred Davison

"No Confidence" ... The "no confidence" motion passed by the Student Senate brought immediate reactions from all corners of the campus and state. Officers in the University Union, the IFC and Panhellenic Councils and the AG Hill Council all voted "confidence" in President Davison. "The Athens Banner Herald" suggested shades of communism in the dealings of our Student Government, and the "Red and Black" had an issue to cover for almost three weeks. Various State Legislators voiced their opinions on whether or not students should have the right to express their opinions (A student should be seen and not heard). And Governor Jimmy Carter supported another full scale investigation of the situation.

Meanwhile, the Board of Regents avoided the issue and in a "rubber-stamp" decision, unanimously appointed President Davison for another year term.

However, all was not in vain. Davison made an unusual appearance in the Bulldog Room and discussed such pressing issues as the high cost of a "Uga burger" and the weather. Davison also organized regular meetings with student groups, such as, most surprisingly, the officers of the S.G.A.

In a public appearance at the "Mell-Lipscomb Living Learning Community" Davison stated that "Communication is always a good thing to blame." He added that the underlying cause for unrest here is the shift in the University's goal; Instead of quantity, the University has been pushing for quality. Davison seemed satisfied that his performance here has supported this goal. Davison also commented on S.G.A.; "They don't like me now", and went on to say that he wondered how representative a group elected with only 20% of the student body voting and 10% voting for them should be considered. Davison said that people are always analyzing campus problems and the blame usually falls to student apathy. The problem is that "nobody defines students," he said. "The definition depends on the individual's purpose at the University." "The apathetic student could be the student involved in activities," he concluded.

The mood has changed, and maybe this time for the better.

Student Senate Motion 1-23-74-2 38 in favor 7 opposed

Whereas, recent surveys of faculty opinion demonstrate that President Davison's administration is not responsive to faculty desires, that the campus is not efficiently administered and that the faculty has no real voice in the administration of this institution;

Whereas, under President Davison's administration, discrimination continues against women at this university in the areas of salaries, hiring, firing, and promotions;

Whereas, President Davison continues to be unresponsive to the needs of Blacks, gays, and other minorities on this campus;

Whereas, President Davison continues to ignore the Student Government Association's legitimacy as the sole representatives for the students at this university;

Whereas, Student Government and faculty proposals to remedy this situation have not only been denied but at times ignored;

Whereas, each year of President Davison's administration has been accented by faculty, student, and worker's unrest;

Whereas, President Davison has not shown himself capable of correcting this grievous situations;

Be it therefore highly resolved that the Student Senate of the University of Georgia declare a vote of no confidence in President Davison and ask that President Davison not be reappointed at the end of his term;

Be it further resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Board of Regents, to the University Committees of both houses of the legislature, to Governor Jimmy Carter, and to the AAUP and AAUW, and the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

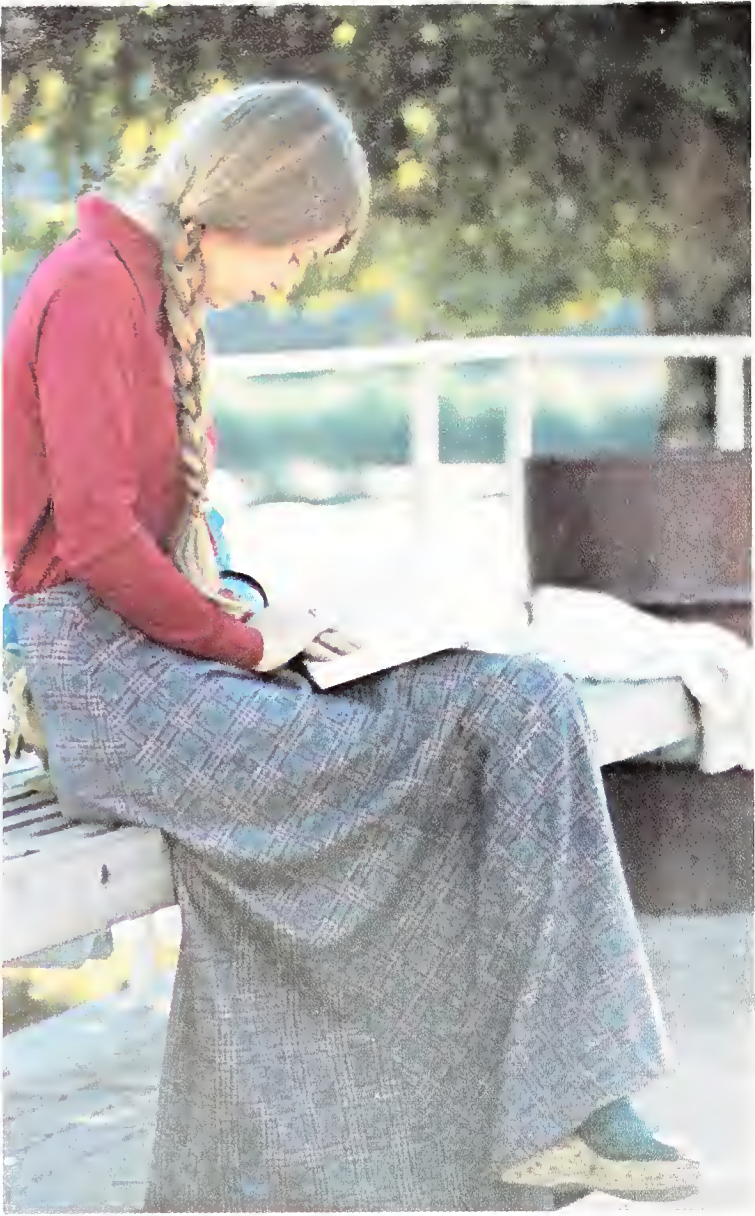

Student Senator Michael Simpson signs a conditional oath of office.

Remember when you went away to school for the first time? Or after your first quarter and grades ... when your Momma reminded you that you should spend at least three hours out of class studying for every one hour in class ... And even though you realized that that didn't allow you enough time to eat and get those nine hours of sleep that Momma also told you to get, you agreed with her. ... which is always easier ... And you really, really do try, for a day, or two, or for a whole week at a time, but you can't seem to avoid those "diversions".

Yeah, "diversions", all kinds of experiences ... going, meeting people, entertaining or being entertained, but always listening ... As students we seem to spend most of our time listening ... bored, ambivalent, ... reaching for something to take for our own. We keep going to classes, lectures, movies, concerts, and parties, searching for answers, or to be comforted by other searchers; Just to know we aren't alone ... And they say there is always something to do at Georgia ... It is such a big school, so many people, it is impossible to be alone ...

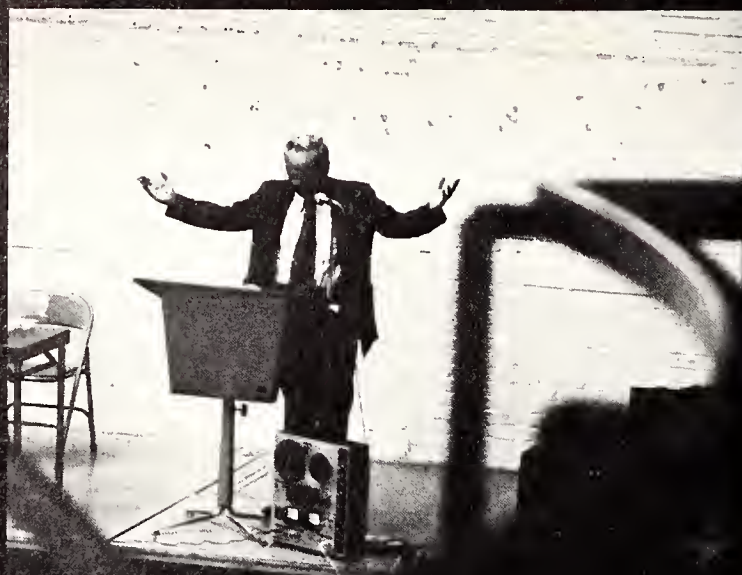

Behind The Lectern

ROBERT H. RIMMER

Author of The Harrad Experiment

"The Harrad and Premar proposals can only begin with a willingness to experiment in the educational system. They do not require national acceptance. While they would be difficult to initiate in the free secondary school system, any college or university could experiment with the general approaches and would have no difficulty in recruiting interested students and their families. While these proposals may be Skinnerian in the basic belief that we must change our environments to accomplish human dignity, they are not Utopian, nor are they based on compulsion. If America is ever to be greened, and human beings educated to enjoy life in a total national community, it is not too late to begin with the 17 or 18 year old who still retains much of his youthful idealism.

"Encounter in the Cage Country"

What I was would not work
For them all, for I had not caught
The lion's eye. I was walking down

The cellblock in green glasses and came
At last to the place where someone was hiding
His spots in his black hide

Unchangeably they were there,
Driven in as by eyes
Like mine, his darkness ablaze

In the stinking sum of the beast house.
Among the crowd, he found me
Out and dropped his bloody snack

Ane came to the perilous edge
Of the cage, where the great bars tremble
Like wire. All Sunday ambling stopped,

The curved cells tightened around
Us all as we saw he was watching only
Me, I knew the stage was set, and I began

To perform first saunt'ring then stalking
Back and forth like a sentry faked
As if to run and in one brilliant move

I made as though drawing a gun from my hip bone, the bite-sized children broke
Up changing their concept of laughter,

But none of this changed his eyes, or changed
My green glasses. Alert, attentive,
He waited for what I could give him:

My moves my throat my wildest love,
The eyes behind my eyes. Instead I left
Him, though he followed me right to the end

Of concrete. I wiped my face, and lifted off
My glasses. Light blasted the world of shade
Back under every park bush the crowd

Quailed from me I was inside and out
Of myself and something was given a life-mission to say to me hungrily over

And over and over your moves are exactly right
For a few things in this world: we know you
When you come, Green Eyes, Green Eyes.

"The Audience last year was almost 18 million people. That may sound like a lot of people, but actually we are losing our audience at an incredible rate. The motion picture industry is, in many ways, a dying industry. The audience was 18 million a week in '72' but in 1946, the audience was over 80 million a week, no matter what was playing; Movie going was a habit. In my opinion, it is not just the inroads that television has made that has taken the audience away, not at all because when there is a picture that the audience wants to see, like the "Godfather" or "Love Story" and a few like that, then you can't get a ticket, you stand in line for hours. What I think it is is that the filmmakers of my generation gave up the basic fundamental reasons why people go to movies. What people want is an emotional reaction; To laugh, cry, and be scared. And I can't really think of another reason to go to the movies."

ERICH VON DANIEN
Author of Chariots of the Gods?

"The earth's was formed about 4 billion years ago, and all that science knows is that something like man existed 1 million years ago! The gods of the dim past have left countless traces which we can read and decipher today for the first time because the problem of space travel was not a problem but a reality to the men of thousands of years ago. I claim that our forefathers received visits from the universe in the remote past, even though I do not yet know who these extraterrestrial intelligences were or from which planet they came. I nevertheless proclaim that these "strangers" annihilated part of mankind existing at the time and produced a new, perhaps the first, Homo sapiens."

Pinball Perversion

Remember pinball and foosball machines, and that terrible, lusty rush that they used to bring out in you? The founding fathers of Athens knew what would happen if they let vice and corruption seed themselves in Athens. They passed an ordinance to protect the innocence of Athens youths.

And now, in 1974, the Athens police are again enforcing this necessary ordinance. Now, if they could just take care of the major crimes involving stray dogs, expired parking meters, and nude bodies, Athens could be a virtually crime free city!

Hot'lanta

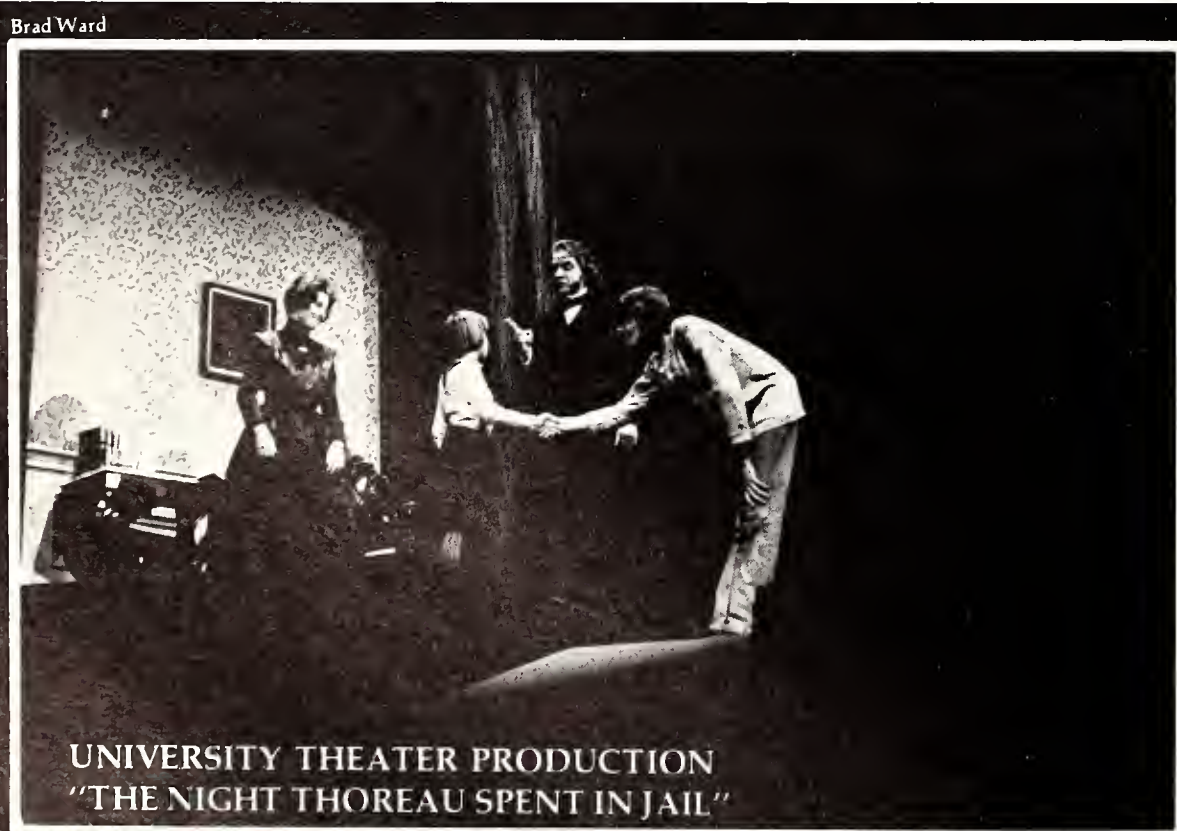

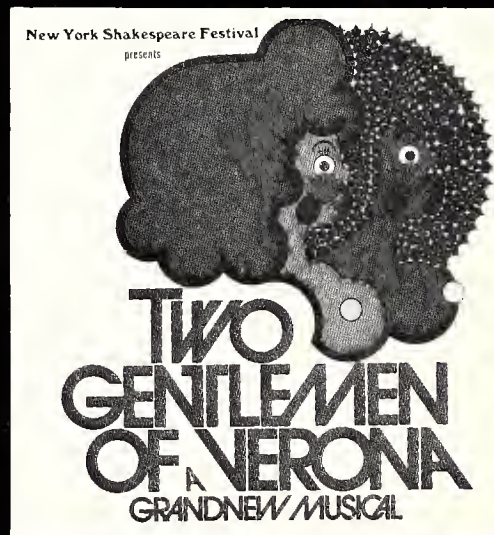

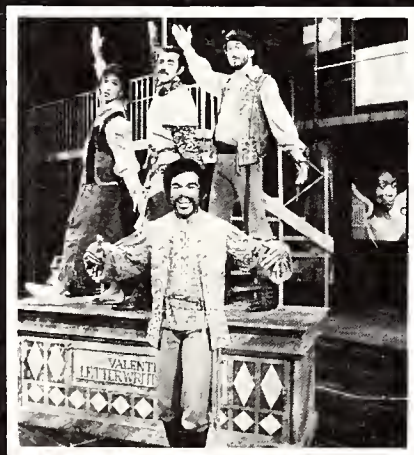

Hot'lanta ... nothing that Athens can't offer, but always on a larger scale. Underground, the Omni with the Hawks of Flames, movies months before Athens, restaurants, clubs, shopping, shopping, and more shopping. The "Hub of the South" and only 70 miles. It's so easy to get lost there for those who don't know. For others it's home.

Home ... Jesup, Columbus, Macon, Knoxville, DC, maybe not every weekend, but often. A suitcase college. Greyhound Bus or Southern Airways, 78, 129, 29, I-85, or 441, you can get there. Especially with the "Energy Crisis" going home is exciting. Even after the ride it is worth it. Mom's cooking, your own bed and room, and security. Backsliding to where everything is familiar. Dating the old favorites, church, and finally forcing yourself to come back to Athens.

It was just another night and I was out on a limb, looking for someone to help me back in. A couple of hours of cruising around brought me into a bar and I sat me down — nothing much to be found. So I got in to talking to the old bar man, he said: "You got a problem I can understand, and I know a little lady who is all alone. If you find her, she will take you home. She don't like to spend her nights alone!" They call her Easy. They say it's not a way for a body to be. They call her Easy. She is giving out her love for free." I found her on the street like the bartender said. She was not great looking but not that bad. Walked on up to her and didn't say a word, but my eyes were talking and I think she heard. Yes, she heard me. We walked down the road to a rundown farm. She lit a couple of candles and she held out her arms. Lord, she was gentle as a windblown sigh; in the morning while dressing I could hear her cry. She was crying and I went flying out of there.

The next day found me walking in town. Saw the old bartender and I flagged him down. I thanked him for the girl and told him that she pleased me, and laughed a little bit about how she was easy. But the old man stopped me with the look in his eye. He said: "You know I had hoped you weren't that kind of guy. Dream of the kind of world it could be if we were free with out love like Easy." It's a hard world we must learn to be easy. In a cold world I must love the ones who please me — Easy!

Beginning Thursday night, you get restless. Sometimes you get drunk. Usually you go out to get drunk. B&L Warehouse for the party people, The Last Resort for the arty, The Dog House for the drunks, Between the Hedges, the Library, and Wall Street West for the locals, and TK Harty's for the very practical and usually married . . . these are the spots. Later you go by the house, or to International House of Pancakes or the Waffle House. Why? To Avoid Mornings.

A new organization was founded in Athens this year by a "Mr. James Ray". This organization was one of the best publicized in town. "The Red and Black" and "WRFC" spread the news. For only $10 dues per couple, members could hear Cheech and Chong and enjoy all the free booze they could enjoy. The meeting house was Old Mill Hall, but painters and workmen remodeled the building to prepare for the show.

There was no show. Cheech and Chong did not arrive, and the back-up band "Mose Jones" was at best bad. No liquor was served because Athens has an ordinance against free liquor and besides, the club had no pouring license. Rainchecks were issued, and Kris Kristofferson was promised for the next weekend. Kristofferson was nonetheless shocked to hear this as he had never heard of Athens, and Cheech was equally shocked and suggested that "Mr. Ray" be hung-up by his "wang-wang". For some unknown reason, "James Ray" had disappeared, leaving behind dozens of unpaid bills, a bewildered assistant manager, and 1000 rainchecks. Could this happen in modern Athens? It did. The Grievances of the Black Student Union

We, the Black Student Union, representing Black students and Black organizations, have fallen victims of discrimination by the University of Georgia.

As victims of discrimination, we wish to initiate the necessary procedures for securing the rights of Black students.

We wish to protest the following inequities as they relate to Black students:

1. Misallocation of University-allocated funds.
 - A. Evidence of flagrant and intentional inconsideration of Black students in budgetary allocations.
 - B. Eradication of $2400 allocated by the Student Government for a Black cultural center.
 - C. Inadequate support of Black cultural affairs.
2. Education and Faculty.
 - A. Inadequate number of Black professors.
 - B. Inadequate number of Black administrators in viable positions.
 - C. Few graduate students.
 - D. No Black coaches.
 - E. Insufficient Black studies program.
3. Admissions Practices.
 - A. Lack of relevant recruiting procedure.
 - B. Discriminatory practices in recruiting materials.
4. Institutionalized and Systematic discrimination of Black Students.
 - A. Degradation of students in the classroom situation.
 - B. Poor Black representation in the organizational structure of the University's Intramural program.
 - C. Lack of representation in administrative positions in housing.
 - D. Inconsistency in approving reservations of University facilities.
 - E. Discriminatory practices in professional schools.

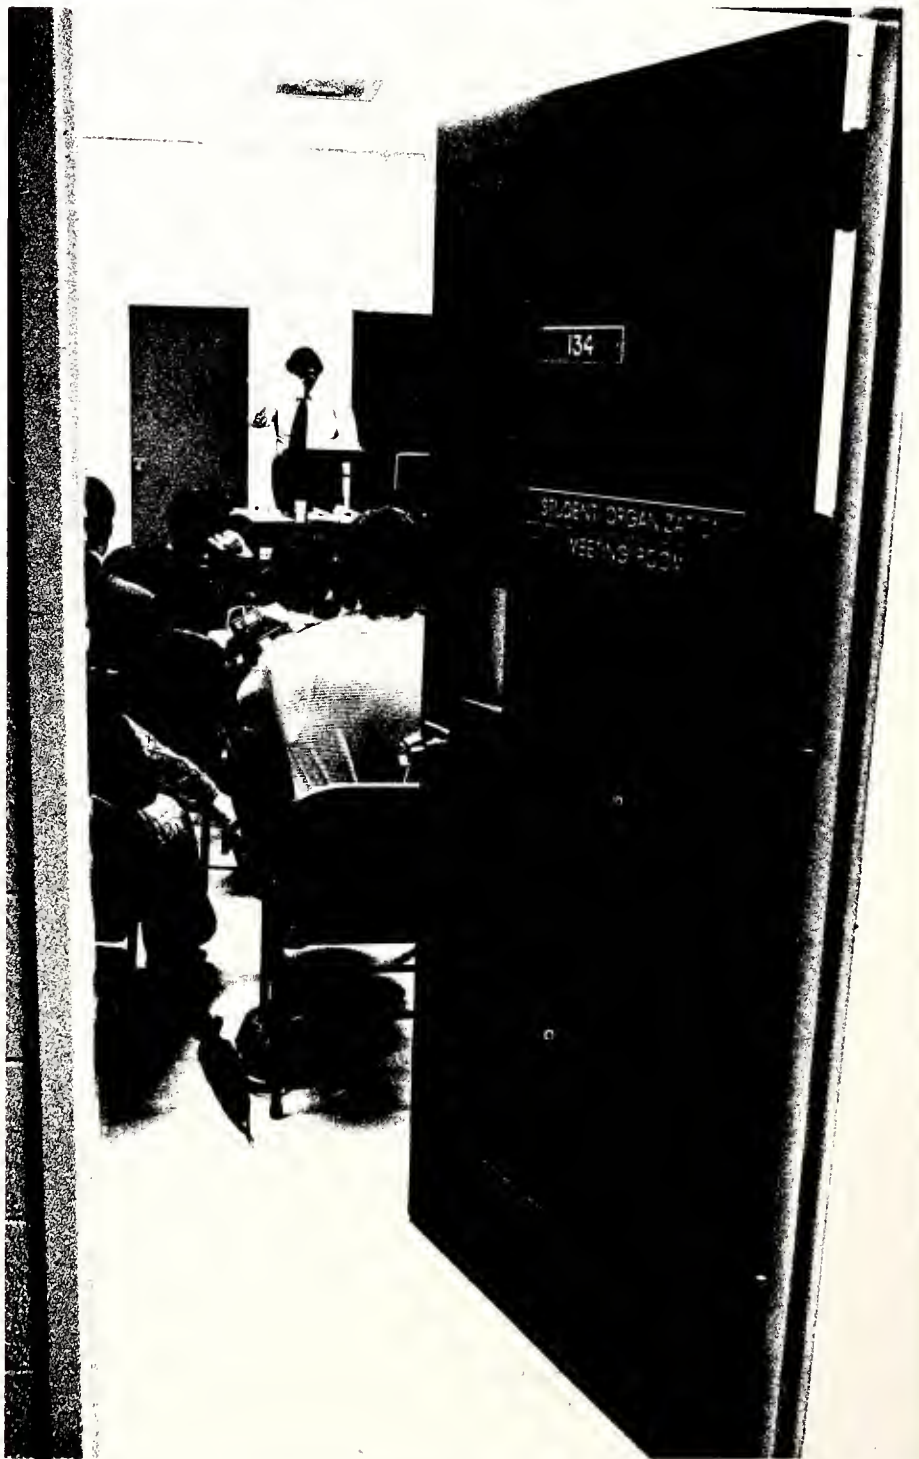

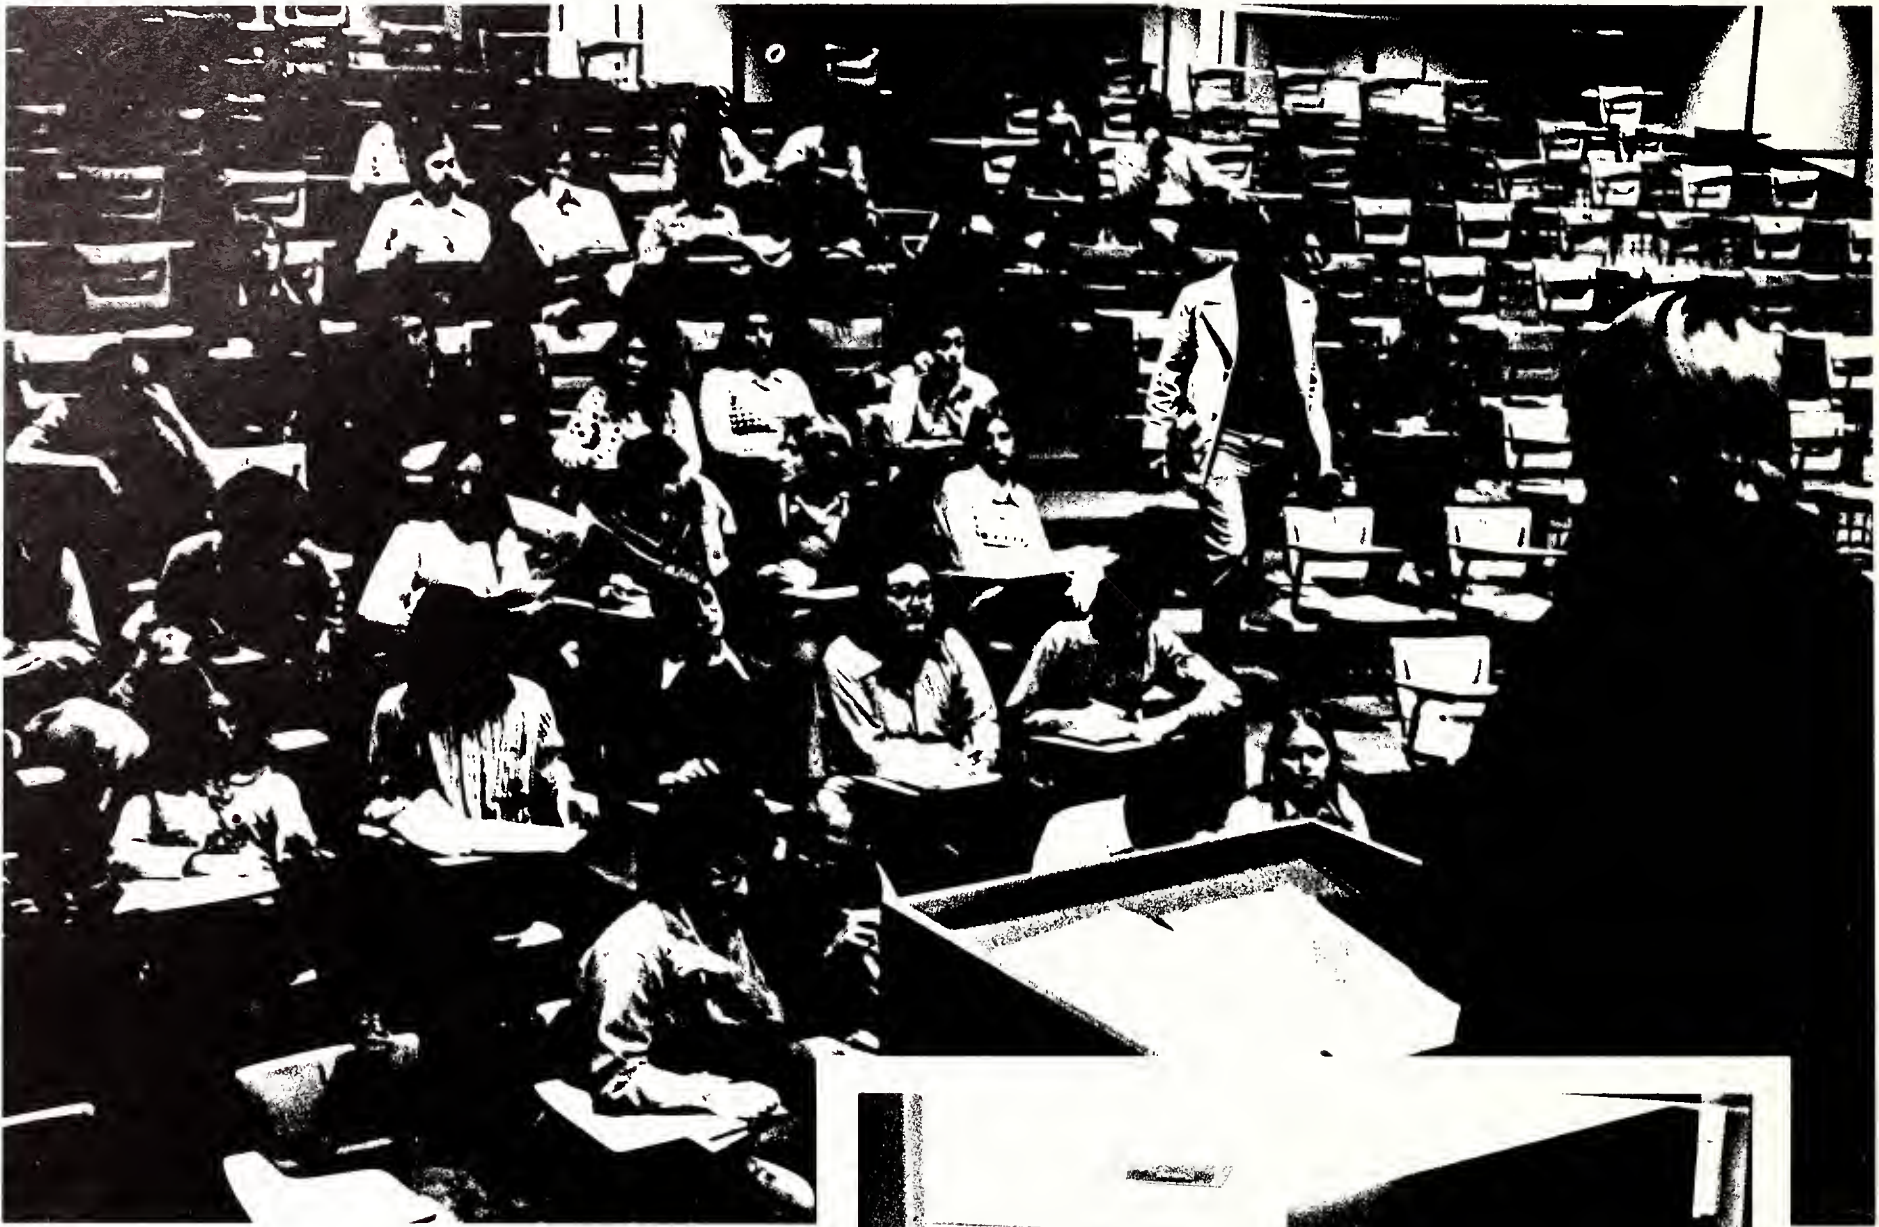

ORGANIZATIONS

University Theater

Since its founding in 1931, the University Theatre of the Department of Drama and Theatre has staged over one hundred and sixty-five productions. These productions provide students, faculty, and residents of Athens the opportunity of viewing a variety of plays, both contemporary and classic.

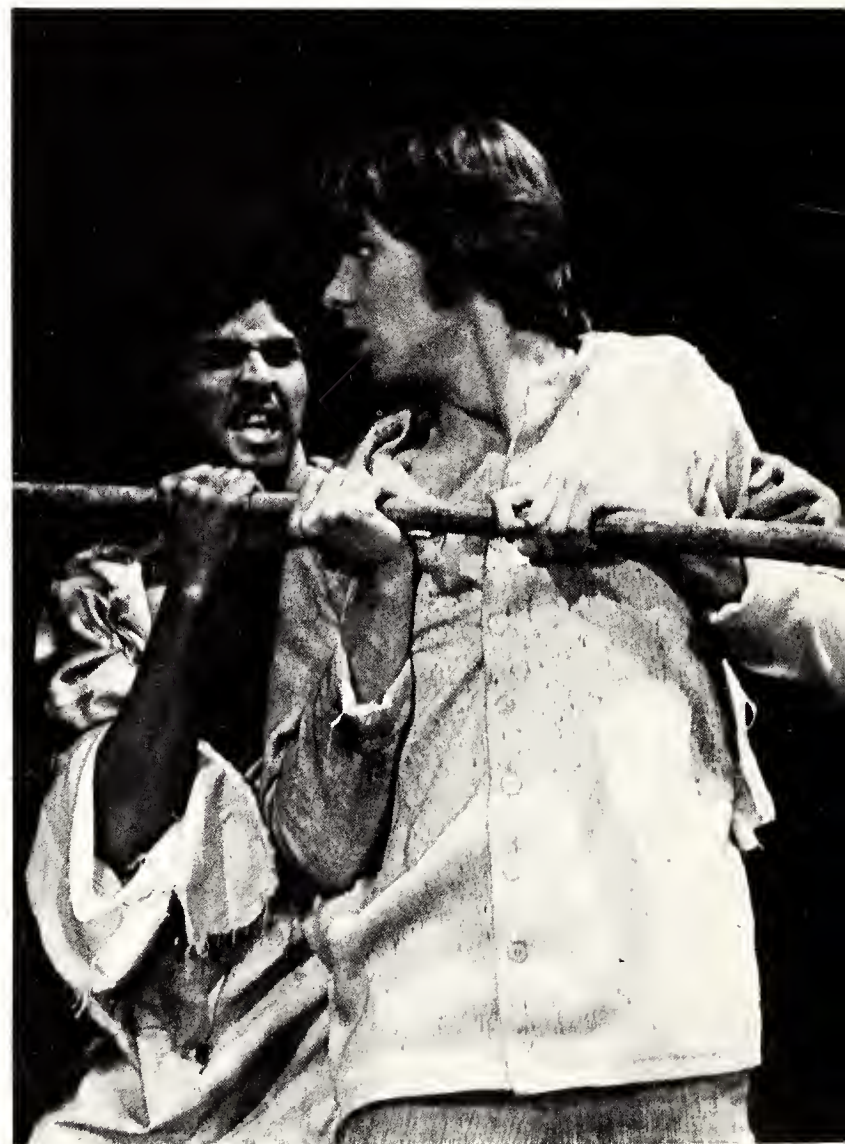

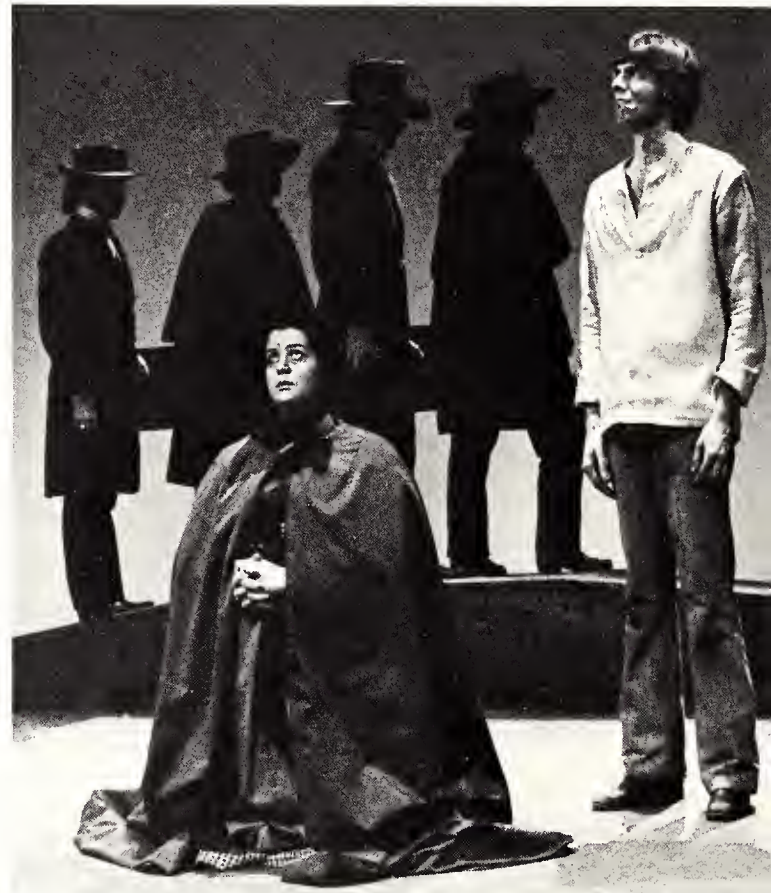

In the fall and winter of the 1973-74 season, the University Theatre presented Jean Anouilh's The Waltz of the Toreadors, Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee's The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail and Bertolt Brecht's The Resistible Rise of Arturo Ui. In the spring of 1974, the University Theatre produced The Hostage by Brendan Behan and Richard Stockton's Tom Sawyer.

In addition to the annual major productions, over forty student-directed one-act plays are presented in the Laboratory Theatre. The High School Drama Workshop is held annually. In the summer of 1973 the High School Drama Workshop productions included Lanford Wilson's The Rimers of Eldritch, Jules Feiffer's Crawling Arnold, and Bertolt Brecht's The Exception and the Rule.

The Summer Repertory '73 company produced Leonard Gershe's Butterflies Are Free, James Rosenberg's Life and Death of Sneaky Fitch, and Old Times by Harold Pinter.

Apathetic, Lazy, Frustrated. Junior year has been my worst yet. Overloads, Major courses, I still haven't finished by Core. Only one of my math courses will transfer. I feel more lost here than I ever did at Middle Georgia. It is like being a Freshman all over again. Hey Sally, what is your major this month. I know it will take me at least three more years to graduate. My advisor told me I have no talent and should consider another major. Gee, I almost wish I was married.

Going home for the summer was a real drag. It is really hard living with a strange family in what used to be your home.
You can find out real quick just how much you've changed. It was not so much restrictions as it was nothing to do.
Coming back to school
again: I did a lousy job of packing up again this year. I didn't bring anything to write with!
It seems like I've been coming back to Athens
for 19 years.
Not ever seeing Micky
even though you know
she's still enrolled here.

Just try getting excited about four more quarters of core curriculum. I wish I had taken my language courses last year. Disillusioned. Satisfied, I've lived through one whole year haven't I? Bringing up your average. Taking an upper division course, even though it means taking Biology 101 your senior year. Not taking a single P.E. course all year. Moving out of the dorm, and kind of wishing you hadn't. The rising Juniors Test Lord, I don't want to take English 101 again! Sophomore year, I skipped it.

At the end of the SPRING Quarter 1973, you had earned 59 hours of academic credit, exclusive of Physical Education and Military. This makes you eligible for the Rising Junior Examination which, in accordance with the Board of Regents Policy, is now required of all students in the University System. YOU MUST TAKE AND PASS THE EXAMINATION AS A REQUIREMENT FOR GRADUATION. IF YOU ARE IN CLASSES WHICH CONFLICT WITH THE EXAMINATION, YOU WILL BE EXCUSED FROM THOSE CLASSES.

Your Examination is scheduled to be given

JAN. 16, 1974

5 35 PM

2 HOUR EXAMINATION

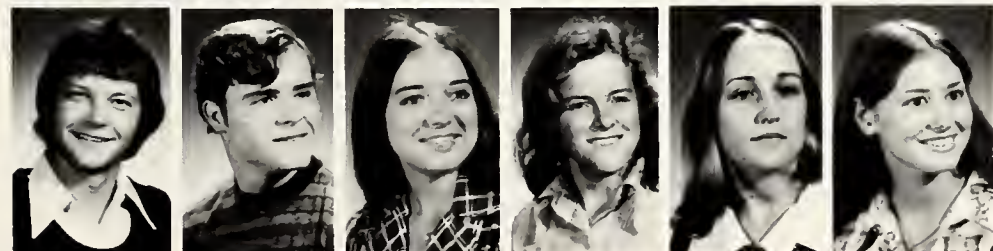

NORTH AUDITORIUM

PSYCHOLOGY-JOURNALISM BLDG.

You are urged to take the examination at the scheduled time. Failure to take the examination at the appropriate time will result in your record being flagged. This means that you will not be permitted to register for any subsequent quarter until this test requirement has been fulfilled. HOWEVER, IF YOU WILL NOT BE ENROLLED NEXT QUARTER, YOUR RECORD WILL NOT BE FLAGGED AND YOU WILL RECEIVE ANOTHER NOTICE TO TAKE THE EXAMINATION

- confused, lost
- adjustment
- frustrated because you don't discover all the people you're going to be good friends with in two weeks.
- developing patience for standing in line
- danger of becoming involved in 500 different organizations before you know it
- not being given enough time to decide if you like the place before signing up for next quarter's classes
- being forced to live in a 9'X12' dorm room, usually with another person
- worrying about how your parents are going to react to your grades and finding out they aren't half as worried as you are
